Girl Scout leaders meet

Local and national Girl Scout leaders met this morning in the home of Mrs. Richard Powell, 411 Virginia St., to make plans for a major national event — a Wider Opportunities session — to be held in Sikeston in August 1975. Miss Carol McConnell, right, Wider Opportunities specialist based in Kansas City, discussed the program with local leaders, from left: Mrs. Powell, 1975 Wider Opportunities task force chairman; Miss Ilena Aslin of Sikeston, Cotton Boll Council executive director; Miss Doris Brown of Sikeston, field advisor; and Mrs. James Ponder of Charleston, area program committee chairman. The Wider Opportunities event will include 100 Senior Girl Scouts from all over the United States and possibly some international girl guides.

Trucks moving as strike continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More trucks were reported on the road today as scattered incidents of violence continued and mediators attempted to persuade independent drivers to end their nine-day protest shutdown.

Increased truck traffic was noted by officials in Pennsylvania, Missouri and Kansas, but there was no sign that the shutdown to gain reduced fuel rates and other concessions was ending.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, the self-appointed mediator who initiated negotiations between dissidents and federal officials in Washington, journeyed to a truck stop in Bartonsville, Pa., to explain the settlement to protesters.

The manager of the Stop 76 in Bartonsville, Bill Fry, reported that truckers from nearby areas had gathered for the meeting with Shapp. But, Fry said, most remained opposed to the tentative agreement reached early Thursday.

Among other things, the government promised to provide the drivers with all the diesel fuel they need, and to allow a surcharge on freight rates to cover the recent hikes in fuel prices.

The violence that marked the nine days of protest fell off after announcement of the agreement, but authorities in at least eight states today reported shootings or vandalism had occurred again during the night.

Although most of the big rigs involved in the protest remained idle, there was some acceptance of the agreement with the government as Shapp and other negotiators brought their case to the protesters. In Santa Clara, Calif., a truckers' group voted 112 to 50 to accept the deal after a bitter two-hour debate.

"I think we are a long way from ending this mess," said strike leader J. W. "River Rat" Edwards in Kansas City. "As long as the government refuses to talk sense, we won't either." And 500 strikers attending a meeting with Edwards Thursday night vowed to stay shut down.

So did drivers attending Thursday night meetings in Joplin, Mo.; Branford, Conn.; Wildwood, Fla.; Coates, Minn.; Palmyra, Ill.; Moorhead, Minn.; Glasgow, Del.; and Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz. To flex their strength, some of the protesting drivers went out and closed down more truck stops Thursday night.

But the majority of those speaking out said government promises of all the diesel fuel that truckers need, an immediate surcharge on freight rates to compensate for past diesel fuel increases and future rate hikes to pass along increased costs were not enough.

East Prairie City Council discusses waste disposal

EAST PRAIRIE--- Thursday night's City Council meeting proved to be a question and answer session when about 12 residents attended the meeting seeking answers on subjects ranging from sanitary waste disposal to the problem of dogs running loose.

Mayor A. L. Weaver explained to those present that the necessity of having a sanitary refuse collection service was not a decision of the council but one required by state and federal laws which go into effect July 1. At that time the city must have an ordinance establishing the guidelines and be prepared to have a collection service in operation.

Lack of funds and the high cost of equipment, plus additional crewmen, were the reasons given to the question of why the city does not operate the service.

The cost of the service was another prime concern of those present, who voiced objections to the proposed fee of $3 per month per family. Several said they thought the fee was too high, especially for elderly persons living on a low fixed income and it was also pointed out that the amount of waste would vary from family to family depending upon it's size, and felt the cost should

Gun fired at trucker on I-55

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A Paducah, Ky., trucker and a passenger were shot at early today on Route K west of Interstate 55 near the entrance to Holiday Inn, the highway patrol reported today.

Ed Nance of Paducah and James B. Gurley of Cape Girardeau told the patrol that about 1:30 a.m. a dark colored car swerved into the path of the Colonial Bakers Truck driven by Nance, who said he thought he heard a shot fired.

The car then turned around and followed the truck until Nance pulled into a private drive.

The windshield on the passenger side of the truck was struck by what appeared to be a .22- caliber short bullet, but it did not penetrate the windshield.

Area ambulance service may be ready by summer

Ambulance service for residents of parts of Scott and New Madrid counties may be available by midsummer, according to Harold Jones, administrator of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The service — to be based at the hospital — came about through the efforts of the city of Sikeston and the County Courts of New Madrid and Scott counties. It will comply with new state laws enacted to regulate ambulance service and personnel in the state, which were "created to save lives," Jones said.

The need for the service arose when most local funeral homes announced their intentions last year to discontinue ambulance service Jan. 1, 1974, rather than comply with regulations of the new ambulance laws.

Welsh Funeral Home and Dotson Funeral Home of Sikeston both decided to continue their ambulance service until the new system is ready.

The Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council based at Malden, interested in helping fill the void created when funeral directors stopped ambulance service, established a task force last year to evaluate emergency care delivery systems in the six- county area.

Staff members of the health council met Sept. 6, 1973 with representatives from the hospital, Scott and New Madrid County Courts, city of Sikeston officials, Sikeston Jaycees and other interested persons to present their recommendations for improving the ambulance system. The Mississippi County Court also was invited to send representatives, but did not respond.

The group asked the hospital to provide service for the southern part of Scott County and northern part of New Madrid County.

The County Courts have purchased one ambulance each and the Sikeston Jaycees have bought two ambulances, all to be placed at the hospital and staffed by personnel already employed by the hospital. The ambulances have been ordered and are scheduled to arrive sometime in July.

Jones explained that the service is designed for emergency use only and is not a taxi service.

Four ambulance teams of two qualified attendants each will be stationed at the hospital around the clock. When an ambulance is dispatched from the hospital, another team and ambulance will be made ready.

The hospital and each ambulance will be equipped with a radio communications system.

The hospital is a member of the Hospital Emergency Administrative Radio program, (HEAR) a state radio network. In case of a large disaster, the hospital will have communication with other doctors and health facilities across the state.

The service will provide the best life- saving equipment and personnel available, according to Jones. Once the minimum requirements for equipment are met, additional equipment -- resuscitation and monitoring equipment -- will be installed.

Treatment will begin at the scene, since each attendant will receive training in an 81- hour emergency training course to be taught in the hospital's classrooms. The course is to be held under the supervision of the Sikeston Vocational School with vocational director Bill Sikes serving as project director.

The first session of classes will begin Tuesday with 18 persons from the hospital staff attending, along with two persons each from New Madrid County, Mississippi County and the Malden area. A second course will be available in April. Jones said there is a need for 35 participants in the program.

Brown gets Chaffee bid

CHAFFEE — The Chaffee High School signed a contract Thursday with Brown Construction Co. of Dexter for $525,190 for the construction of two additions to Chaffee High School.

The second bid submitted was from Ryan Construction Co. of Sikeston for $528,000.

The architect and two low- bidders have been reviewing plans for the construction of the additions since Jan. 10 when the bids were higher than the school had anticipated.

A bond issue of $495,000 for construction of the school additions was approved by voters last February.

Plans calls for the construction of a single- level four classroom building and a physical education arena building.

The classroom building will have 19,020 square feet, although only four rooms of 8,000 square feet are to be built at first. More rooms will be added as the school system's bonded indebtedness decreases.

The physical education building will have about 20,000 square feet with a seating capacity of 1,500.

Construction on the building will begin as soon as the weather permits.

County landfill open 24 hours

BENTON — The Scott County Court announced Thursday that the county sanitary landfill one mile north of Morley on Highway 61 will be open 24 hours a day seven days a week, effective today.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the court reached this decision after receiving reports of people dumping their refuse along the road during the hours the landfill was closed.

"We expect people to carry on in an ordinary fashion when they go to the landfill ... because there will be some type of surveillance," Lankford remarked.

Previously, the landfill site had been open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Man badly hurt when hit by truck

Melvin Wilburn, 58, of 302 S. Stoddard St. was listed in critical condition today at Missouri Delta Community Hospital, where he was taken after being run over by a tractor- trailer truck at 2:12 p.m. Thursday at the Agrico Chemical Co. plant, 1600 W. Malone Ave.

Wilburn received multiple fractures and other injuries, according to a hospital spokesmen.

Police said a truck driven by John Ikerman, 36, of Benton, Box 263, was backing up to unload 73,000 pounds of gravel when the rear wheels ran over Wilburn.

Wilburn had apparently fallen down behind the truck and Ikerman did not see him. Wilburn, a foreman at the plant, was going to show Ikerman where to unload the gravel, police said.

No arrests were made, police said.

Officer to remain on force

BERNIE-- The board of aldermen in a special meeting Thursday night took no formal action against city police officer David Moore, who is being sued for a civil rights violation by David Williamson of Dexter.

The board heard Moore's statements concerning an incident in the Bernie Police Station on May 27, 1973 in which Williamson was involved. The board then voted there was no reason to suspend Moore, since the case will be heard in federal court.

The board said it regrets any controversy that might have occurred, but on the evidence given, ruled to prejudge the officer would be unfair.

Cornwell seeks council seat

Denny Cornwell announces his candidacy for a position on the Sikeston City Council. Two council positions are to be filed in the April 2 city election.

Cornwell moved to Sikeston in February 1971 when he became manager of Midwest Beauty Supplies, 1619 E. Malone Ave.

Cornwell operated a floor- covering business in Tulsa, Okla., for six years and has been in the field of cosmetology since 1968.

While in Oklahoma, Cornwell was a member of the Jaycees and served on the board of directors for two years. In 1964, he was named a statewide director.

Cornwell is a graduate of the Dale Carnegie salesmanship and public speaking courses and was an instructor for the salesmanship course for two years.

He and his wife Sharon, who is employed by Southeast Missouri Computer Corp., live at 731 Matthews Ave.

Cornwell says he wants the support of Sikeston residents and asks an opportunity to serve them as a councilman.

If elected, he promises to give 100 per cent attention to his duties and obligations as a councilman.

What car fire?

Fires being as dangerous and destructive as they are, Sikeston's fire department races at full tilt to every one that is reported. Sometimes the reports turn out to be a little bit in error. Such was the case when firemen responded to a call about a car fire on Lillian Street which turned out to be a trash fire in this barrel. Firemen found the barrel setting a few feet away from a car somebody evidently thought was on fire. Volunteer fireman Earl McConnell, left, and an unidentified man look as if they just couldn't quite believe the whole thing.

Noranda strike continues

MARSTON-- A standoff continues between Noranda Aluminum Inc. and members of Local 7686 United Steele Workers of America following a week- long strike at the aluminum reduction plant which started when the contract expired Jan. 31.

Negotiations broke off on that day between the company and union representatives when they failed to reach an agreement on a new contract.

The plant is continuing 24- hour production by supervisory personnel who remain on the site.

A company official stated earlier that if agreements were reached among the aluminum companies and unions in New York, perhaps Noranda and the union could reach a contract agreement. It was announced that such agreements were reached in New York over the weekend.

A union spokesman said today the union is ready at any time to meet with the company officials but no meeting has been held since the strike started and none are scheduled at this time.

He stated the workers are seeking the same wage scale and benefits that are paid to other workers in the metal industries.

According to the spokesman, the Noranda mill produces the finest metal in the United States. "Every pound of it is sold for top prices, but the workers who produce it are not paid wages that other metal industries pay," he said.

FLOOD CONCERN CAUSING COTTON NOSE DIVES

There's an age- old folk story about a man traveling through Arkansas who stopped at a stranger's house to ask for directions.

While there, the traveler noticed the rundown condition of the man's house and inquired why he didn't fix his roof. The old gentleman, who was sitting on his front porch, promptly replied "When it's raining it's too wet to fix it and when it's not raining it don't leak."

This could be a good lesson to most of us who live along or near the Mississippi River.

Last year's flood, which records show was one of the worst in the past 100 years, if not in history, caused millions of dollars in property and crop damage in Southeast Missouri alone. Add this to the damage to northern Missouri and neighboring states and the damage figure grows into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Although many were warned to expect a flood, even the experts had no idea of the extensive damage that was to come.

However, we have already been given ample notice that there is a very distinct possibility that if certain weather conditions prevail, this region could face worse flooding this year than last year.

Clear weather within the past week has given us a temporary breathing spell, but now is the time to prepare for when the rains return.

The Corps of Engineers is reportedly already making preparations to help prevent some of last year's problems, and we have word that the Missouri National Guard is also helping with sandbagging operations for the more vulnerable positions along the river.

But this alone will not prevent much of the heartache that can occur if this region is again deluged with flooding of 1973 proportions.

Every farmer along the Mississippi River should be taking every precaution possible to shore up his property to prevent the type of damage suffered last year.

Every community within a 50- mile radius of the river should draw up emergency plans to cope with the situation in the event of flooding. This should also include possible storage and housing facilities for friends closer to the river who may be forced to evacuate.

The Corps of Engineers could play a valuable role in encouraging the release of "overflow" water into areas along the Mississippi where it will do the least amount of damage, thereby preventing costly damage to valuable crops along the river. If the release policy is started early enough, it could possibly prevent much of the buildup that could lead to enough pressure to eventually break levees and flood large areas.

We are hoping that enough water could be released at the southern tip of the Mississippi to greatly reduce the threat of serious flooding.

Regardless of how we do it, we need to start now formulating our plans and putting them into operation — then pray that it doesn't rain enough, so the "roof don't leak."

Sometimes the older generation may have second - thoughts on some of today's youth becoming tomorrow's leaders. However, it is reassuring to note that youth organizations such as the Boy Scouts of America are working to develop future leaders of strong moral character and sound convictions, capable of carrying the strength and freedom traditions of the United States.

So we give special recognition to the Boy Scouts of America this February 8, as they celebrate the 64th anniversary of the founding of scouting in America. During the month of February, over 6 million Boy Scouts will be exhibiting for the public the many Scouting skills which lead to the development of good character traits, attitudes and self - reliance.

We salute the Boy Scouts and their adult leaders on this occasion and our communities are better for your work and programs.

'NO' ON PRIVY STAMP

Efforts to obtain proper official recognition for that great old American institution, the outhouse or "privy," are continuing but without a great deal of success. And that's a pity, of course.

The latest to come to my attention is a report from faraway Oregon. A transplanted Arkansawyer named Estley Weatherall, who's now 75 and living in Portland, is trying to persuade the Postal Service to issue a stamp to commemorate the outhouse. All he's getting is the door slammed in his face.

He petitioned the Citizens Advisory Stamp Committee, which has official duties pertaining to commemorative stamps. A curt reply came to say the committee had "more serious ideas to consider." Apparently the committee is made up of city slickers who are ignorant of the truly serious conditions which prevailed on occasion in relation to privies.

A lot of folks simply won't take serious matters seriously. C. Chester Smith, of Springfield, ran smack up against this fact last fall. He went to the public library to inquire about James Whitcomb Riley's poem on "The Passing of the Backhouse," but wrote me that the girl librarian thought he was joking.

Mr. Smith had taken a suggestion from this column, made earlier, that anyone interested in Mr. Riley's lament might find the poem at a library. Apparently this doesn't hold true at all libraries.

As for Mr. Weatherall of Oregon, his inspiration for a postage stamp came from a return to his home home grounds in the piney woods south Arkansas. There, he wrote the postmaster general, he found "the old weather - beaten privy of home."

He described it with admiration:

"There she stood, gracefully aging with the years, sagging but giving the impression of pride to have served well. In her door was the crescent moon, the wooden latch lock controlled from inside to insure uppermost privacy. The cinder path that led to this sanctum was grown over. In its heyday the cinders would give off a crunching sound, warning the occupant to check the latch for security."

Considering the great upsurge of interest in recent years in relics of the American past, surely there is merit in Mr. Weatherall's proposal that the privy be commemorated by a postage stamp. And surely the privy occupied a significant and vital role in the American culture. It was a facility utilized by rich and poor, by aristocrats and the famous as well as millions of ordinary folks of no fame whatever.

Despite Mr. Smith's disappointment over the Riley poem at his library, there is some literature in print on the subject of the privy. I mentioned one booklet, "Pretty Privies of the Ozarks," in an earlier article. This is a collection of photos by Mahlon N. White, published by the Democrat Publishing Co., Clinton, Mo. More recently, I acquired another booklet, "Truly American," which also is a collection of photos of privies. The author is Lynn Blumenstein, and the publisher is Old Time Bottle Publishing Co., Salem, Oregon.

As for earlier books, the most famous of all certainly is "The Specialist," by "Chic" Sale. It had sold more than a million copies before 1930, when Sale's second book, "I'll Tell You Why," came out. Whether these very entertaining and enlightening books are in print now, I don't know.

"The Specialist" was so popular in its day that afterwards outhouses often were called "Chic Sales." For younger readers who never head of the book or its author, the book told the story of a carpenter who was a specialist in desiging and building outhouses. "I'll Tell You Why" is a sequel to "The Specialist" and it's funny, too.

NADER, THE VILLAIN; NADER, THE HERO

It's news of some kind when a businessman has nice words to say about Ralph Nader. No less than the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has done just that.

The consumer advocate has been described in some quarters as "an enemy of the system." But if businessmen would "look with fresh eyes at Ralph Nader and the kind of consumerism he represents," they would realize that "his commitment is to make the system work," says Edward B. Rust, who is also president of the six companies in the State Farm Insurance group.

"The whole point of Nader," says Rust, "—so obvious that it is often overlooked — is his single-minded dedication to making the free enterprise system work as it's supposed to — to make marketplace realities out of the very virtues that businessmen ascribe to the system."

That, he says, "suggests a considerable degree of faith in the system and contrasts sharply with the revolutionary who would tear it down."

Well, you win some and you lose some.

At about the same time that Rust was praising the Caesar of the consumerism movement, another source was challenging him to put his convictions where his mouth is.

The point of contention was Nader's recent charge that "there's no question that the oil industry has been calculatingly developing a short- term energy crisis in order to get what it wants out of Washington."

The claim is "nonsense — and stale nonsense, at that," counters the American Petroleum Institute.

"If Mr. Nader has facts to back up his charge," the API says, "as a citizen he should present the information to a grand jury. If he has no such proof, he is doing the public a disservice by adding to the confusion surrounding the energy issue."

The energy shortage is "real and will not go away any time soon," says the institute, maintaining that "the basic cause has been years of indecision over national energy policies."

If the effect of Nader's blast against the oil industry is to encourage Americans to go their merry energy - consuming ways, it would seem that it would be less - than - desirable consquence of his dedication to making the free enterprise system work, as the Chamber of Commerce president gives him credit for.

But whatever one's feelings about business or consumerism, it has to be agreed that Ralph Nader makes waves.

AM RADIO FIRE ALARM SYSTEM IS INSTALLED

A new solid- state coded - radio fire alarm system is replacing a conventionally wired system in New Castle, Pa., manufactured by Gamewell, a division of Gulf and Western Manufacturing Co.

Each new fire box contained an individual radio transmitter with no wire between the box and the Communications Center.

A tone- encoded signal is amplitude modulated (comparable to normal radio stations) assuring greater range and clearer signals from weak and remote areas. Each fire alarm box will be powered by recharable, maintenance- free, lead acid batteries which will operate for a minimum of six months before recharging is needed.

Twenty-two of the 69 radio call boxes will be master units which, in addition to functioning as street alarm boxes, will permit automatic operation from fire alarm systems installed in buildings. The building alarm systems can be zoned within a single building, or a single radio box can serve as many as four separate buildings.

NEW ASIAN DANGER

A naval fight between forces of South Vietnam and Red China off some obscure islands in the South China Sea serves to remind us that the affairs of Asia, like those in the Middle East, remain explosive. The scene of the battle was in the chain of Paracel Islands which lie 200 miles off the coast of South Vietnam. They have long been in dispute between Saigon and Peking. This naval engagement occurred even as communist forces directed by Hanoi were pressing fresh land offenses against the embattled South Vietnamese troops who must now stand off the invaders alone.

There are two points of history emphasized by the gravity that now centers over the battlefields on and off the coast of Indochina. The United States backed away from a finish fight with the Chinese Reds during the Korean conflict. This was a military compromise that was opposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The States decided not to win the Korean War on the field of battle. The other point in history involves our 10- year fling in fighting the communists of North Vietnam. Our men again fought bravely but politicians directed the war and we again wound up with a compromise and "peace with honor" which turned out to be neither.

While American soldiers have long since been withdrawn from South Vietnam, the fighting and dying go on unabated and the communist forces remain a constant threat in the field. Saigon itself may be in peril.

It is to be hoped at this late date that diplomacy can calm the troubled waters of Asia. Our good offices should be open, as should those of our allies. The situation now looks foreboding but we have overcome worse problems and with strong leadership we shall overcome this one. A strong defense which the United States should put into evidence will strengthen our diplomatic hand. HLH

Blocking Fuel Thieves:

Crack NYC Police Squad Smashes Strange New Gas Hijackers

NEW YORK-- Gasoline tanker trucks and even a barge or two are being hijacked by "cowboys" for hire-- but no one really knows just who is commissioning them to ride a 3,000- gallon carrier off the streets or highways.

However, both the federal and local police authorities believe the "cowboss" aren't the Cosa Nostra's. The Mafia is too shrewd, too public-relations conscious, too profit-minded to whip up the citizenry's wrath right now. So, the crime- fighting experts are convinced the organized crime families are betting on the certainty of gas rationing.

Then the underworld can slide its underground doors open on a vast black market and flood the nation with forged ration coupons. They're all ready.

Hijacking gas trucks is just too risky considering the "take." Fire departments don't permit trucks to carry more than 3,000 gallons. Even at a dollar a gallon, and you can't wrench that yet from the angry public, it would mean a heist worth $3,000. Too chancy considering it costs $5,000 an hour to hide the truck.

Who then is hijacking the trucks seized here and up the line to Albany, some New England states and points south and west? Who stole 30,000 gallons from a depot in the Tampa, Fla., area (according to local law enforcement records)? And thousands of gallons from a fuel center in Richmond, Va.-- just to mention a few of the rippling gasoline robberies?

There have been a few arrests here where the New York Police Dept. has a fabulous, and imaginative, Safe, Loft and Truck Squad D, at One Police Plaza commanded by Capt. Paul Herny. The arrests don't link any of the hijackings to the Mafia.

Capt. Henry's Squad works closely with the New York State Motor Truck Assn locally and with "TICOTH" nationally.

TICOTH is the code name for Trucking Industry Committee On Theft and Hijacking organized in Washington, D. C., by the American Trucking Assn. It too finds no hijacking Mafia tie.

TICOTH is directed by the Association's Jim Fernan, an ex- FBI man. But aside from reporting their activities here, I reflect all informed opinion and am not quoting either Capt. Herny or Jim Fernan or the state's trucking organization's anti- hijacking coordinator, Frank Lasar-- though these men appear to be the nation's most knowledgeable authorities in this new gas and diesel fuel hijacking phenomenon.

Aside from traditional anti-hijack counterattacks, there really isn't any technical expertise in this field yet. The Justice Department's heavily financed Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) is surveying the nation, consulting with the FBI and local police departments on what aid is needed. This mostly is in the form of funds, always helpful, and some interchange of information. There'll be an LEAA gasoline hijacking report in about three weeks, I'm told.

There's one certainty-- whoever is hijacking a truck load of gas worth at most some $1,500 and more likely $1,000, is chancing much and obviously not for the money. Hijacking is a serious crime violating federal and local laws-- kidnapping, armed robbery and sometimes felonious assault. Murder, too, if an abducted driver should die.

Opinion among the anti-crime forces has it that the hijacking is being handled by loners for some taxi fleet, or a car service, with or without chauffeurs, or some truck firm- none of which could operate without huge amounts of gas. Nor could they afford to have their vehicles wait in five- block- long lines for an allotted three gallons of gas when they need anywhere from 15 to 150 gallons regularly for rentals, chauffeur-driven limousines and freight hauls.

Thus the confidential belief is that private firms are hijacking other private firms-- namely the oil and gas distributors-- especially during the days the rebel owner-driver truckers duct off fuel deliveries by picketing depots.

Whoever they are, Capt. Herny is determined to nail them. So are the directors of the Motor Assn's Operation Alert, which cues in with sheriffs of a score of counties and is alerting oil distributors not only throughout New York but in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont. This strategy is in addition to TICOTH.

Capt. Herny met with the top security personnel of seven major oil companies and one big common carrier three weeks ago at One Police Plaza here. They set up a system of interchange of information and some off- the- record operations.

Further, Capt. Herny is set for the Mafia if it cuts into the hijack field after all. He has a vast file on gas filling stations owned, or frequented, or used as hangouts by Mafiosi. If trucks suddenly appear at these Mafia stations pouring their guts into empty tanks and a string of cars appear to be filling up unduly and frequently, his squad will move in.

JACK ANDERSON & LES WHITTEN SAYS:

Hoover and Hughes

WASHINGTON-- Frustrated with Mafia infestation of Las Vegas, the late J. Edgar Hoover schemed to turn the Dunes Hotel over to Howard Hughes in hopes of ridding it of suspected underworld influences.

As sometimes happened, the pugnacious old crime fighter refused to let anything get in his way, including firm Justice Department antitrust guidelines against Hughes' purchase of the gaudy Nevada pleasure palace.

This strange venture by the FBI director into corporate takeovers has been described to us by those close to the case who had access to secret FBI memoranda involved.

We have already told from confidential Senate Watergate studies how Attorney General John Mitchell was also working in 1970 to throw the Dunes to Hughes. It has been said, over heated denials by Mitchell that Hughes was to get the Dunes in partial return for his $100,000 gift to President Nixon's political treasure chest.

The FBI director's motives were entirely different. Hoover was miffed over Nevada hoteimen's suits against FBI bugging and over the skimming of casino profits by the Mafia which Hoover knew about but could not prove in court. The aging G- man wanted the Mafia out at all costs.

Hoover would have preferred to throw the Dunes to the Hilton or Webb interests or some other less controversial businessman, but Hughes was already leading the bidders. The FBI head, therefore, cast his lot with Hughes even though Justice's antitrust division already had turned down Hughes on other deals in the Nevada gambling capital.

Justice's antitrust chief at the time, Richard McLaren, learned of Hoover's and Mitchell's efforts and bitterly opposed them on grounds that subverting antitrust laws was not the way to eradicate a crime syndicate.

Our sources have seen FBI memos showing that McLaren charged Hoover with misrepresenting the antitrust division's views. The FBI, according to the memos, countercharged, saying it was McLaren who was doing the misrepresenting.

As the FBI chief and McLaren warred, with Mitchell playing a supporting role for the Hughes takeover, the situation resolved itself. As we reported earlier, Hughes learned that the Dunes ownership had given him dubious profit and loss data, and the whole deal fell through.

FOOTNOTE: Nevada officials and Dunes management have insisted that the Mafia did not control the Dunes then and has no influence on it now. McLaren, now a federal judge, flatly refused all comment. At FBI headquarters, a spokesman said Hoover had never taken a position on the Dunes sale. The FBI had merely forwarded information to the Justice Department from an informant that Hughes was interested in the hotel and that certain federal agencies would not stand in the way of the deal.

NIXON'S PENSION: Despite President Nixon's firm resolve to stick out his full term, sources close to him believe he would resign if faced with certain impeachment.

Impeachment would deprive him of his $60,000- a-year pension. The pay- raise bill, now awaiting congressional action, will increase pensions. Under the bill, the President's pension would increase around $15,000 over the next three years.

Rather than give up a $75,000- a- year pension check, our sources say, the President would resign if he could make a deal to avoid prosecution. House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills has already offered to introduce legislation granting him immunity from prosecution.

JUVENILE RECORDS: Most states strictly forbid the release of juvenile arrest records. This upsets the military brass who want the right to snoop into the past indiscretions of potential recruits.

The most recent military effort to gain access to juvenile records began with a memo from Capt. John R. Brock, the Navy's legislative chief, to his superiors.

"The reluctance of civil authorities to release juvenile record information," he complained, "is impeding recruiter efforts in screening applicants to obtain high quality recruits."

A Navy spokesman explained to us that recruits often fail to note past run- ins with the police. The information turns up later and the servicemen are cashiered for "fraudulent enlistment."

According to Brock's memo, the military services lost $2 million on fraudulent enlistments in fiscal 1972. He wants access to juvenile records, therefore, "to stem the rising tide of fraudulent enlistments, reduce non- cost-effective expenditure of money and effort, and above all, enlist a higher quality recruit."

This would violate the traditional American concept of protecting juvenile records, warn legal experts. "If you get the information out of the courts and put it into a massive governmental system," said one, "it becomes available to be tapped by anybody."

Life in the Office: Taking up a Collection for Baby

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You never really know what the human herd is like until you take up an office collection.

Suppose, for example, that Millicent, the plump little girl in the stenographic pool, has just had a baby and you have been drafted into trying to pry a buck apiece out of the other hired hands in the office to buy the kid a present.

Here is a typical sampling of the remarks that greet you:

"See me payday."

"Count me out on moral principles. I'm against the birth explosion. If we start rewarding babies for being born, we'll be up to our armpits in them."

"I'll give the baby a buck when the father gives me a cigar — and not until then."

"Nobody gave me money for being born. They just stole the pewter spoon out of my mouth."

"See me payday after next."

"When I first came here 40 years ago, the only thing they took up office collections for was the widow when one of the old-timers died. Today they take up a collection to buy flowers for a guy if he stays home from work two days because his sinuses are clogged."

"Pass me on this one. I've got six children of my own at home to buy presents for every other Christmas if I can make it."

"Here's my buck. Any kid crazy enough to be born in these times needs all the help he can get."

"When are you going to take up a collecton for me? I've been working for this sweatshop 18 years, and I have yet to see my first merit raise."

"Sure, here's a buck for the little tyke — and here's another in case he wants to go to college later."

"A dollar is too much, but I'll gladly contribute 50 cents if you assure me I can deduct it from my income tax as a business charity."

"I've only got one buck left, and I plan to buy a Martini for lunch with it. Who do you think needs that Martini most — me or the baby?"

Two members of the Cape Girardeau Junior Chamber of Commerce were in Sikeston this week to learn how Operation Red Ball is progressing.

The Jaycees plan to promote Operation Red Ball in Cape Girardeau.

Cheaper budget proposed by Sen. Proxmire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate-House subcommittee on economy in government today proposed $9-billion-cheaper alternative to President Nixon's budget for fiscal 1975.

Sen. William Proxmire, DWis., who also is vice chairman of the Congressional Economic Committee, said Nixon's 11-percent budget increase is unconscionable.

"The rampaging inflationary condition as well as the need for fiscal discipline cries out for a major cut in the President's proposal," Proxmire said.

"In this year of both inflation and unemployment we should cut spending which promotes inflation and emphasize that which increases jobs and increases productivity," he added.

Proxmire would cut spending for defense, space, highways, public works and foreign aid by a total of $12 billion, and increase by $3 billion the funds for housing, public-service employment, consumer protection, health and education.

Nixon's 1975 budget proposes spending $304.4 billion, up $29.7 billion from the current figure.

Proxmire called for holding defense spending at the current level of $80.6 billion, a $7.1-billion cut from Nixon's request. The decrease could come out of "the massive fat and waste in military procurement, excessive overseas bases and troops, and the dilatory and gold-plated weapons such as the new carrier, the B1 bomber and the F14 fighter plane," Proxmire said.

Change taken from machine

NEW MADRID-- Cravens IGA Foodliner, 421 Line St., reported to police today that someone had broken into a soft drink machine outside the store Thursday night and stole an estimated $12.

Marshal O. E. Householder said it appeared that a pry bar had been used to open the machine.

Jaworski, St. Clair discuss file dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski met today with James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's Watergate lawyer, in an effort to resolve a dispute over continued access to White House files.

A spokesman for Jaworski issued the following statement:

"The special prosecutor and White House special counsel held a lengthy meeting this morning. The matter remains under discussion."

The session was held at Jaworski's office in a downtown office building.

The meeting was arranged earlier in the week to discuss a letter St. Clair had sent to Jaworski in which the presidential counsel repeated President Nixon's belief that the prosecutors had received all the material they needed to complete their investigations.

No details of the letter were disclosed, but it was understood that St. Clair did not close off the possibility of some continued cooperation.

But it was clear that Jaworski's staff would no longer have the access that it had received during the past two months.

In a related development, Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., said he has reason to believe more guilty pleas will result from indictments expected to be voted by the Watergate grand jury later this month.

"I have been led to hope guilty pleas will be forthcoming," Ervin said Thursday after announcing the committee will postpone its final report to avoid interfering with the indictments.

Ervin, the committee's chairman, said members had unanimously agreed to the postponement suggested by Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski. He said they also agreed to ask the Senate to extend the committee's life three months to May 28.

Three guilty pleas have been entered in recent months by these Watergate figures: Frederick J. LaRue, former aide to then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell; Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of President Nixon's re-election committee; and John W. Dean III, former White House counsel.

"We hope the situation will be clarified, perhaps by pleas," Ervin said. "If the committee were to file a report on Feb. 28 the defendants will undoubtedly seize on the filing of that report to delay until the resulting publicity has died down."

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, Jr., R-Conn., said that delaying the report will not mean that essential Watergate facts will be "swept under the rug."

The committee also voted to certify its complete investigative file to the House Judiciary Committee considering the possible impeachment of President Nixon.

In other developments:

—President Nixon made the first move in opening discussions with the House Judiciary Committee in its impeachment inquiry, instructing his special counsel to make himself available to the committee for consultations.

—Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe told reporters he thinks the Senate Watergate committee ought to close up shop because "they're straining a little bit now to stay in business."

—Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Nixon told him about 10 days ago that he was considering public disclosure of the contents of Watergate-related tapes and documents.

Husband spanks new wife; she's warned about future

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please comment on the psychological aspects of a husband spanking his wife?

I am 20 years old, married to a man who is 30. We've been married only two months and already we are in conflict over this matter. Please understand that I love and respect my husband. He was my first sex partner and I am ten years his junior. He regards me as "his little girl." I find it refreshing and enjoyable, compared with the problems other married couples are having.

Last night we had an argument about my "disobeying" him. He turned me over his knee and gave me a hard spanking with a hairbrush.

I hysterically told him it was the most humiliating experience of my entire life. He suddenly became very sweet and explained calmly that because I had lost my father at a tender age, I needed a strong, domineering father-figure-- and he is it. He also said spanking is a "personal, intimate and highly sexual form of correction," bound to improve our marriage and heighten my respect for him.

Am I headed for trouble?-- S. B.

Dear S.B.: Headed for trouble? You've got trouble NOW. You are already married to the nut.

A man who believes spanking a wife "heightens here respect for him" has a few loose bolts. If you buy this crock of cranberries, "little girl," you deserve what you get. And don't be surprised if that "charming man" breaks your jaw one day when he feels the need for a few extra jollies.

Dear Ann Landers: Your neutral stance on astrology does your readers a grave disservice. What Ann Landers says is considered "The Word" by a tremendous audience. I am writing this letter because I believe members of the scientific establishment should make their thinking known. The charlatans swamp the public with whatever they wish to promote while scientists somehow feel it is beneath their dignity to acknowledge the existence of any hocus pocus.

If you had seen lives destroyed by the belief in astrology, as I have, and if you knew as much about the subject as I do, you would share the belief of the scientific community that astrology is at best a religion, and not by any stretch of the imagination a science.-- H.K.E.V.W., Chairman, Department of Astronomy, University Of Southern Florida At Tampa

Dear Chairman: Since your letter arrived I have done some research and I am no longer "neutral." Thanks for moving me over with the scientific community.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married for eight weeks to an attractive, intelligent, well- mannered man. He is also the biggest liar I have ever met. His lying, I'm afraid, is compulsive and pathological.

Could therapy help him? When I hinted he needed it he flew into a rage. Last night I came right out and said, "You need counseling. He refused to speak for hours. I can't bear his anger and his stony silence. What should I do? I'm determined to make this marriage work. It's my second.-- Honeymoon Finito

Dear Honey: Get some counseling for yourself and find out why you married "the biggest liar" you ever met.

Can he be helped? Judging from his reaction to your suggestion-- that he get counseling-- no. Receptivity is essential, and his is zero.

What's prudish? What's O. K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting-- What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Women buying more term insurance

BOSTON (AP) — More and more women are buying term life insurance, one expert says.

Sabino Marinella, president of Continental Investment Corp., says young married women are in the vanguard of this surge.

Over 4.3 million women in this category took out term policies in 1972. This is a 20 per cent increase over 1962, when there were 3.6 million new policyholders.

"The wave of interest in this type of protection for women is simple to explain," Marinella said. "They report that term is an answer to full coverage — and they are particularly pleased with lower cost of premiums."

Marinella says young married women with small children want insurance when their families may need it most. He says the cost of replacing the services of a young wife is significant for any husband.

He also says there are advantageous aspects for young widows and divorcees.

Rita Morrett, Terrell Parker wed in candlelight ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Jason Parker

ORAN — In a candlelight ceremony at First Baptist Church, Miss Rita Lynn Morrett and Terrell Jason Parker exchanged wedding vows at 2 p.m. Jan. 26. The Rev. Alonzo R. Dale, pastor, performed the double- ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Morrett of Oran and Mrs. Lucille Parker of Illmo and Harold J. Parker of Jackson, Miss.

Prenuptial piano music of popular selections was provided by Richard Dale. Dana Wolfe, soloist, accompanied himself on the guitar and sang, "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The church altar was adorned with twin pots of fern arrangements interspersed with pink and white carnations and flanked on each side by a seven-branched candelabra tied with pink satin bows.

An additional candelabra and kneeling bench completed the altar setting. The aisle was decorated with a white bridal carpet, and pink, white and burgundy satin bows marked the pews.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, appeared in a satin gown trimmed with Venise lace. The demi- bell skirt was trimmed with a deep flounce hem. White satin ribbon was intertwined throughout the lace. The gown also featured a detachable train.

The bride's three- tiered bouffant veil of imported illusion was held secure by a Camelot- style cap overlaid with lace matching the gown. A row of seed pearls adorned the top of her headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses, white pompons and pixie carnations.

Mrs. Shirley Wolfe served as matron of honor and Miss Shauna Hency as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Jewell Phillips of Chaffee.

They wore matching gowns with headpieces in the same color. Gowns were of burgundy velvet trimmed in white Venise lace and featured square neck lines and long sleeves. Each carried a long- stemmed pink rose adorned with ribbons.

The groom was attired in a Lord West ivory brocade tuxedo with white ruffled shirt and black velvet bow tie. A single red rose completed his attire.

Randy Simmons of Cape Girardeau was best man. Groomsmen were Richard Johnson of Cape Girardeau and William Koch of Scott City, a brother- in- law of the groom.

The best man wore a dark formal tuxedo with pink ruffled shirt and black bow tie. A single pink rose adorned his lapel. Groomsmen wore tuxedos similar to the best man's and each had a pink rose boutonniere.

Thomas Clark of St. Louis and Grayden David Jr. of Delta were ushers and candlelighters. They wore single- breasted black tuxedos with pink ruffled shirts, black bow ties and pink rose boutonnieres.

Mrs. Elizabeth Koch of Scott City, sister of the groom, attended the guestbook. She wore a long gown and a corsage of pink carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Morrett chose a pink floor- length gown, and Mrs. Parker, the groom's mother, wore a blue floor-length gown. Both had orchid corsages.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the unity candle was lit by the couple to symbolize the oneness of their marriage union.

A reception followed in the church dining room.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white cloth. Pink net, draped from each corner of the table, was

SHS freshmen win pair

The Sikeston Bulldogs freshmen won a pair of games here Thursday night as the B team downed the Notre Dame Bulldogs 56-31 and the A team drubbed their opponents from Cape Girardeau 75-49 for their highest point total of the season.

In the first game of the night George Brown had the hot hand as the little guard pumped in 16 points to take high game honors but was followed by Hal Hunter with 12.

The Bulldogs hit 28 field goals to 13 for the ND team. ND hit five free throw to none for Sikeston.

Sikeston's defense held the Bulldogs to only six points in the first period while Brown and Butler were putting Sikeston ahead 14-6. The second quarter was low scoring for both teams as Sikeston scored six and ND hit only four.

After the intermission the SHS Bulldogs began to rebound on the defensive boards and fast break down court and put 20 points on the scoreboard by the end of the period.

With the big lead coach Asa Kinniman used his reserves and ND was able to score a few more points in the last period.

In the A game Sikeston came out running and with David Shell popping shots from the corner the Bullodgs had run up an early lead over the ND team.

Sikeston took a 21-9 first period advantage and coach Kinniman went to his bench early in the second period but the Sikeston crew still scored 20 points to 13 for ND.

Paul Gilbow was the only Bulldog regular to play almost the entire game. Gilbow ended the game with 24 points and 11 rebounds. Shell scored 17 while he was in the game and Leible hit 13. Big Alonzo Harris led the Bulldogs with 11 rebounds.

With the huge lead coach Jim Orr let his reserves play the second half and Campbell outscored the Greenwave 39-26.

Jim Robinson hit 28 for the Greenwave and Tom McCormick scored 19 for the Camels. Malden hit 43 field goals in the game.

SHHS raced past the host Reindeer after a slow start in which Lions outscored the Reindeer 10-6 in the opening period.

Senath took advantage of the smaller Clarkton team in the second period to score 26 points while holding the Reindeer to six.

SHHS put four boys in double figures with Jack Bibbs scoring 12 points. Jim Caldwell hit eight for Clarkton.

St. Vincent wins 1st

ZALMA — The fifth seeded College High Preps edged by the fourth seeded Naylor Eagles 55-54 and St. Vincents, seeded seventh, upset the sixth seeded Marquand Tigers 46-42 in the Zalma invitational tournament here Wednesday night.

The Naylor Eagles, holding back the CHS Preps by two points in the first quarter, one point in both the second and third quarter, finally gave way to the mighty Preps in the fourth quarter when CHS outscored them by five points to claim a slim victory.

Ron White led the Eagles with 21 points. Jim Moyers and Luke Cano each contributed ten points to lead the Preps to their victory.

In the second game of the night, another upset was recorded when St. Vincents flashed by the Marquand Tigers 46-42 for its first victory of the season.

After blowing a seven point lead at the end of the half, the Tigers handed the game over to the Pirates and the Pirates managed to hold them back the rest of the game with the Pirates ending out in front 46-42.

Randy Harris scored 17 points to lead the Pirates to their victory, and C. J. Rimler contributed 21 points to lead the Tiger's efforts.

Harrison's predictions

Well here I go again still trying to get that perfect night before the curtain closes on the 1974 season. I missed a few last Tuesday but not by much. They were closer than some I have predicted this year.

Jackson at Perryville -- The Pirates looked good against Sikeston but the Bulldogs have made a lot of teams look good this year. I have to go along with Jackson -- 75-67.

Dexter at Cape Central -- This could be an interesting game. Coach Jim Hall always has a good defensive team. I'll pick Cape because of their big men -- 60-56.

Poplar Bluff at Sikeston -- The Bulldogs have the home court advantage which should help but the Mules are a pretty good team. Sikeston does play good sometimes so all I have to do is figure which game will be their good one. I'll pick PB because of their zone defense. Sikeston has trouble hitting from over ten feet out -- 72-68.

Kennett at Charleston -- The Bluejays have Marshall Straughter back in the lineup and he is tough. I choose Charleston for two good reasons. Straughter and the home court -- 72-70.

Advance at Woodland -- The Cardinals just don't play much basketball. The Hornets are crippled up but almost beat Puxico with two starters out of the lineup so I'll go with Advance -- 72-55.

Risco at Piggott, Ark. -- They play good basketball in the south so it's Piggott by plenty -- 72-66.

Elsinore at Neelyville -- The Tigers will not have much trouble with hillbillys -- 76-55.

Chaffee at Kelly -- Kelly starters will not get in much time in this one -- 84-65.

Parma at Oran -- This should be a good game. Parma is looking better the second half of the year and Oran is a good running team. I think the Eagles have too much speed for the Pirates -- 72-68.

Bernie at Twin Rivers -- The Royals will win but must hold down Ruben White -- 74-67.

Matthews at Bloomfield -- The Pirates like to run and shoot and coach Don Metz doesn't have the fire power to keep up -- 75-66.

Meadow Heights at Delta -- The Bobcats have Carson Kelly and Mitch Stroder and that's all they need to whip the Panthers -- 77-56.

Notre Dame at College High -- Pity the poor preps -- 80-45.

Bell City at Illmo- Scott City -- The Rams have an easy time against the Cubs -- 72-60.

New Madrid at Richland -- The Indians have a good defense and adequate offense. The Indians will win 67-60.

Gideon prevails

BERNIE — The Gideon Bulldogs had to overcome a 29-28 deficit to beat the BHS Mules here Tuesday night, 61-55.

Gideon took the game at the free throw line where the Bulldogs hit 19 shots to only seven for Bernie. The Mules outshot the Bulldogs 24-21 from the field.

Gideon took a 15-14 first period lead but allowed the Mules to forge ahead in the second quarter, outscoring the Bulldogs 15-13 to take a 29-28 halftime lead.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)— Australians Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall and John Newcombe will help defend their country's title next month in the Aetna World Cup tennis tournament, team captain Fred Stolle says.

He said Thursday the fourth team member either would be Tony Roche or John Alexander, who both have played previously in the tournament.

U. S. team captain Dennis Ralston has not named his team members.

The tourney is scheduled for March 7- 10 at the Trinity College Ferris athletic center.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)— A House committee voted Thursday against recommending a bill designed to pave the way for racing and parimutueal betting on the Gulf Coast.

Rep. Jim Simpson of Pass Christian, author of the bill, said it died in the Ways and Means Committee because "a number of members did not feel like we should do anything at this time to legalize any form of gambling."

The measure was proposed by a number of coast tourist groups as a way to stimulate tourism and to compete for tourists from Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans, which both sanction betting at the tracks.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— Southern Mississippi fullback Wilson Plunkett, a free agent, signed with the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League Thursday.

Plunkett, of Aiken, S. C., stands 5- feet- 11 and weights 205 pounds. He carried the ball 217 times for Southern Mississippi last season, gaining 886 yards and scoring six touchdowns.

Plunkett, who played outfield and first base, was also picked by the New York Yankees in the 1974 baseball draft.

Rev. Jim Hylton

Evangelist Jim Hylton of West Plains will conduct revival services from Sunday through Feb. 17 at Trinity Baptist Church, Highway 61 North. The services will begin at 7 o'clock each night.

The Rev. Mr. Hylton will be assisted in the services by Gary Reutzel of Advance, who will direct the music and assist with counseling.

The Rev. Mr. Hylton was born and reared in Norwood, a small town near Mountain Grove in southern Missouri.

After deciding to enter the ministry at age 17, he pastored churches for 16 years before entering full-time evangelistic work in 1969.

During his ministry, the Rev. Mr. Hylton has conducted evangelistic crusades in Australia, Taiwan and India, as well as throughout the United States, and has worked extensively in Bible conferences, Christian life conferences and evangelism conferences.

In 1970, he became acquainted with Reutzel, a layman, while leading an evangelistic crusade at First Baptist Church in Advance. Reutzel has since assisted the Rev. Mr. Hylton in crusades in Indiana, Louisana and Texas, as well as Missouri.

Reutzel, a farmer, was converted at age 11 and serves the Advance church as a deacon, bus director, Sunday school teacher and church training leader in the youth division and choir member.

Last week Reutzel also assisted the Rev. Grady Etheridge, pastor of Miner Baptist Church, in conducting a lay witness evangelism school at Trinity Baptist Church.

Why people read Revelation again

By David Poling (NEA)

(Second of Two Related Columns)

"It is profane, as well as grandiose, to manipulate the Bible in order to apologize for America." — Wm. Stringfellow

Even the youngsters in third grade are aware that modern man is in trouble. From the gas station to the supermarket, from the tent trailer to the bankbook, people are anxious over national and world events. Inflation hits everybody. Watergate lingers like typhoid. Detroit is laying off by the thousands, no tens of thousands. Hoarding has started and the lines of the unemployed look longer every day. Welcome to 1974, welcome to headache number 17.

The followers of the gurus who teach Transcendental Meditation argue for their spiritual exercises, offering health and happiness to the whole world. This attitude (which has assisted many to find peace of mind in a world of commotion) collides with the latest tract of William Stringfellow who preaches a return to the study of Revelation, a New Testament book not often popular with main-line denominations.

Writing in "An Ethic For Christians and Other Aliens In A Strange Land" (Word Pub.), attorney-theologian-Episcopal layman Stringfellow suggests that the power of Revelation is the power of the Bible to ruthlessly appraise and judge human institutions. In this view, demonic power is at work, death is operative, and the fate of man and mankind in the balance. Looking at Revelation and looking at revelations of our nation's life, Stringfellow observes:

"It is arguable that (Nixon and Johnson) have been more prisoners and victims of the demonic than sponsors of the reduction of truth to propaganda, or the marketing of official lies or the intimidation of the media, or the denigration of the First Amendment, or the virtual abolition of credibility in the relationship of government and citizens."

It should be noted that Stringfellow began his tract long before the inflation-energy crises that now floats over Western man. The American community has been so saturated with lies about Vietnam, with suspicions about Watergate and anger over the President's tax returns that a major controversy is sure to come if they agree with the author who says:

"If citizens realize, by now, that they have been contemptuously, relentlessly importuned because of the untrustworthy versions of Vietnam, they may again also begin to sense how their humanity is similarly insulted by official falsehood and propaganda concerning Watergate, the cost of living, taxation, crime, product safety, certain notorious indictments and practically anything else ....."

Stringfellow claims that the book of Revelation offers Christians — even the most "ordinary" believers — a major weapon and power: the gift of discernment. As promised by the Word of God, the gifts of discernment enable Christians to penetrate the frauds and hoaxes, to combat the principalities and powers, to grapple with death and the demonic and to face the false political idols that crowd our common life.

When Newsweek magazine developed the long article on Transcendental Meditation, it quoted the guru as offering "health and happiness to mankind". But has this Hindu philosophy worked anywhere? The advertisement on the opposite page asks for support of a child in Calcutta, India. The frail girl is malnourished, her mother a recent victim of smallpox. Her father deceased, a street cleaner who died of typhus. The youngster is sponsored by the Christian Children's Fund. Perhaps all these issues, philosophies, new religions are finally resolved in the arena of life. Suffering is universal, global. Salvation is an ancient Christian word, again coming into its own.

McClanahan resigns state Baptist post

JEFFERSON CITY-- Dr. H. L. McClanahan, interim executive secretary of the Missouri Baptist Convention, has submitted his resignation to the church body's executive committee, effective March 1, to become pastor of Red Star Baptist Church in Cape Girardeau.

The Rev. Dr. McClanahan had served in the executive secretary position of the state Baptist organization since being selected last summer following the death of Dr. Earl Harding at the height of a dispute over the Rev. Dr. Harding's handling of convention finances. He had held the position for 19 years.

Prior to becoming interim executive secretary, the Rev. Dr. McClanahan had served as the Rev. Dr. Harding's assistant approximately two years.

Before coming to Jefferson City, he had served as superintendent of missions for Black River Baptist Association with offices in Kennett for 20 years. Before that he pastored several churches in the Bootheel area.

In his letter of resignation to the executive committee, the Rev. Dr. McClanahan stated:

"I am terminating my position as interim executive secretary of the Missouri Baptist Convention effective March 1, 1974, to accept the pastorate of the Red Star Baptist Church at Cape Girardeau, Mo. Much prayer has convinced me that this is God's will for my life at this time.

"Since much of the administrative work of our executive board is being administered by the business office and the various committees of the executive board, I do not believe my severance will pose a major problem to the work of the convention. Also, I believe our search committee will soon be led to recommend a permanent executive secretary who will have the freedom to administer the affairs of the convention in a more effective way.

"Please know, even though I have lavored under a great burden during my tenure of service as an employe of the convention, I count it an honor and privilege for the opportunity to have served the Baptists of Missouri. I shall continue to have a great interest in the affairs of our convention and will strive, at every opportunity, to work with our leaders to advance our Saviour's causes to the ends of the earth."

Missionaries to visit Bernie

BERNIE — A missionary-nurse who has lived among the people of the Republic of Mali in West Africa since 1963 will come here to take part in a church missionary conference.

She is Miss Linda McKelvy, of Chicora, Penn., who fills the roles both of medical missionary and supervisor of a school for African girls. She will be among the guest speakers during the annual missionary convention Feb. 10-15 at the Bernie Alliance Church.

Sessions will begin at 7 p.m. on weekdays and at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday.

A missionary who has lived among the Muslims in the province of Sulu in the Philippine Islands, where much of the rebel strife and armed opposition to the government has been taking place since the imposition of martial law in 1972, will also take part in the conference.

He is the Rev. James O. Johnson of Superior, Wis., who with his wife went to the Philippines in 1956 as missionary volunteers with The Christian and Missionary Alliance.

Texas was struck by 2,068 tornadoes from 1953 through 1971, while Rhode Island and the District of Columbia recorded none.

This week's Sunday School lesson

Scripture: John 18:12-19:15

VICTORIOUS IN DEFEAT

"For this I was born, and for this I have come into the world, to bear witness to the truth," so Jesus proclaimed as His days on earth neared the end.

Yet Pilate raised the everlasting question when he asked Him, "What is truth?" John does not provide an answer. What could he have said?

Five centuries before this event, Confucius said that "Those who know the truth are not equal to those who love it." And Plato said God has not given us the attribute to understand truth.

"Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as the sunbeam," wrote John Milton in 1633.

Today it is difficult for us to visualize the situation Jesus faced. He suffered from attacks all about Him. Yet He steadfastly refused to become a "popular" Messiah.

Christ did not come to be a living king in the Roman concept. In the face of provocations, Jesus retained His self-composure. Even when His accusers told lies about Him, Jesus did not rebuke them.

If Jesus had weakened and accepted the opportunity to become popular, we would not be studying Him or believing in Him today.

Men, too, continually face temptations to accept unworthy goals and to magnify material success.

Actually, the cost of ultimate victory for God's way may mean seeming defeat for an individual or group. Too many seize the present opportunities, rejecting the future goals.

This becomes apparent in today's lesson. The persons who arrested and tried Jesus no doubt felt successful in their achievements. Those who taunted Him as He carried the cross no doubt felt good at the time.

Yet as a suffering servant, Jesus never lost His temper, never turned away from His accusers. It would not be worth studying His life had He summoned a legion of angels to wipe out His enemies.

Now, nearly two thousand years later, we know that Jesus suffered humiliation for our sake. And through His suffering, we do not have to face the judgment we deserve for our sins.

This lesson seeks to make us focus on what happens when one bears witness to the truth. Nevertheless, Jesus never promised an easy life for His followers.

With this lesson the public ministry of Jesus has stopped. His arrest, trial, crucifixion death and resurrection are recorded by John.

Throughout these final days, Jesus faces disappointments. The disciples, after all, were human beings and Jesus knew their weaknesses.

He knew what Judas and Peter were going to do.

And in a way Pilate, too had his weaknesses. He knew Jesus was innocent, yet he preferred to please the crowd. He was so upset that he even violated a Roman law when he ordered the scourging of Jesus.

When the Jews failed to convince Pilate that Jesus was a threat, they planned a new charge. Already the Sanhedrin had decided Jesus was guilty. So, the Jews told Pilate that Jesus claimed to be divine.

Pilate was afraid of the "Son of God" label applied to Jesus. After all, the people then had many gods, and Jesus could have been one of them.

When Jesus refused to directly answer this question, Pilate threatened Him again. But to no avail. On the other hand, Jesus reminded Pilate that his power came from God.

There are many Pilates around today. There are those who find it easier to compromise their beliefs and merge with the mobs. Yet this question still remains:

Who won and who lost?

What did Pilate win or lose?

What did Jesus win or lose?

THE BIBLE

121. Boaz's Promise to Ruth

Naomi sought to reward Ruth's courage and devotion by finding her a husband. Thus, she told her daughter-in-law to bathe, put on fresh raiment and perfume, and then go to the threshing floor where Boaz was winnowing barley. Ruth was also instructed not to let Boaz see her until he had finished his evening meal. Naomi said, "And it shall be, when he lieth down, that thou shalt mark the place where he shall lie, and thou shalt go in, and uncover his feet, and lay thee down; and he will tell thee what thou shalt do." (Ruth 3:4)

All of these things Ruth did, and at midnight it came to pass that Boaz awakened and said, "...Who art thou? And she answered, I am Ruth thine handmaid: spread therefore thy skirt over thine handmaid; for thou art a near kinsman." (Ruth 3:9)

Boaz was pleased by Ruth's patience and courage, and he told her to fear not because everyone knew that she was a virtuous woman. However, he noted that Ruth had one kinsman nearer than he. Nevertheless, he vowed that if the nearer kinsman refused to marry her, then he would himself take her as his wife. So Ruth lay at his feet until morning, but she left early, for Boaz had ordered that no person should know that a woman had been on the threshing floor. Boaz sent with her a gift of six measures of barley. Then she went to wait with Naomi for the outcome.

"Do A Good Turn Daily..."

THE SLOGAN THAT WORKS

It works because practice makes perfect, and daily means every day. Boy Scouts get into the habit of looking for ways to help others, until the habit of helpfulness becomes a way of life. The boy grows into a man who cares . . . and shows it!

The best part about a good turn is that it's good for the boy. He feels better about himself because he can help other people. He learns he can really make a difference in shaping a better world. He doesn't stop at one a day. He's always finding new ways to do good . . . and doing them for his fellow men.

Book Review

THE RULERS

There is a power structure that runs a lot of things in America today. It has a direct influence on just about every citizen in our land. There is a book that spells it out. Its title is THE NAKED CAPITALIST.

Some of the richest and most powerful people in the world are avid supporters of communism and socialism. Most Americans strongly doubt that statement because, to them, it makes no sense at all: for it appears quite obvious that any dictatorship is a threat to the usual sources of wealth and economic and industrial power we see all around us.

This thing is one mighty Pandora's box of confusion. But we owe a kind of left-handed debt to one scholar who ripped off the careful seals of secrecy and boasted of the existence of the power elite in a 1,300- page book, which is called Tragedy and Hope — A History of the World in Our Time. Its author is Dr. Carroll Quigley. Its publisher is the Macmillan Company, New York, and it sells for $12.50 a copy.

Dr. Quigley is now professor of history at the Foreign Service School of Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. He formerly taught at Harvard and Princeton and has done special research throughout Europe.

It has been estimated that the oceans contain as much as 50 quadrillion tons (50 million billion tons) of dissolved solids.

A grant for the establishment of the course was awarded as a result of efforts by the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council, which recommended establishment of the course.

The boundaries of the system will be from the towns of Benton and Oran in the north to Highway 62 near Lilbourn on the south. The Stoddard County line is the western boundary.

The ambulance fee will be $25 plus 25 cents per mile. A different fee will be charged for non- local trips.

A deficit of $20,000 has been projected for the first year of operation of the ambulance service. The County Courts will pay the deficit on a pro- rata basis according to the number of pickups made and the number of miles traveled. Jones said each county will pay approximately the same amount.

According to information available on a statewide basis, approximately 2,292 trips will be made per year, serving 35,388 persons. It is anticipated that 100 trips will be made to hospitals in Memphis, St. Louis and Columbia, based on the number of trips made in 1973.

The hospital is at an advantage since it already has inroads to Medicare and Medicaid programs. Methods of handling such patients have already been established, since 52 per cent of the hospital's patients are on one of the programs.

To show the difference in costs between a privately owned service and the newly established one, Jones said that a report made at a recent meeting of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council showed that costs for one ambulance on a 24- hour basis without the benefit of personnel already employed and without the ability to collect from third

Skylab astronauts home safely

ABOARD USS NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts came safely home from man's longest space voyage today, splashing down with pinpoint precision in the Pacific Ocean after 84 days in orbit.

The Apollo taxi ship carrying Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue, and Edward G. Gibson parachuted into the sea 3.4 miles from this recovery ship to climax a record flight which the space agency said proved "America can do anything in manned space flight that it so desires."

During nearly three months in space, the astronauts had circled the globe 1,214 times, traveled 34½ million miles and gathered a wealth of scientific and medical data on man, his earth and his solar system.

The astronauts hit gentle waters 176 miles southwest of San Diego, Calif., at 11:17 a.m. EDT after a journey of 84 days, 1 hour and 16 minutes, breaking the previous Skylab 2 record of 59½ days.

With visibility of 10 miles, hundreds of white-clad sailors on the deck of the New Orleans had a ringside view of the landing.

Helicopters were overhead almost immediately to drop frogmen into the ocean to secure the bobbing spacecraft with a floatation collar.

The recovery ship immediately steamed toward the Apollo, ready to hoist it aboard as quickly as possible so space agency doctors could begin extensive medical examinations to determine how well the astronauts withstood their long exposure to space weightlessness.

"What a beautiful sight," Commander Carr reported as the spacecraft descended toward touchdown.

Terrorist group holds heiress

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — An underground terrorist group says it is holding kidnaped Patricia Hearst as a prisoner and will execute the newspaper heiress if efforts are made to rescue her.

An anxious Hearst family awaited further word from the mysterious Symbionese Liberation Army, which claimed responsibility for the abduction in a communique Thursday. The group offered a gasoline credit card belonging to the girl's father as proof that it held the 19-year-old coed as a "prisoner of war."

The girl's father is Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner. The group's communique called him "a corporate enemy of the people."

Hearst said, "If this is a political problem it may become very, very difficult."

In the letter Thursday to Berkeley radio station KPFA, the radical group claimed the girl was alive and unharmed. But it added:

"Should any attempt be made by authorities to rescue the prisoner, or to arrest or harm any S.L.A. elements, the prisoner is to be executed."

Hearst said he believed his daughter was alive.

Miss Hearst, a University of California student, was kidnaped Monday night from her Berkeley townhouse in a flurry of gunfire.

The same group has said it was responsible for the cyanide-bullet assassination last November of the black superintendent of the Oakland schools. Two alleged Symbionese Liberation Army members are being held in the murder of Marcus Foster Nov. 6. At that time, the group vowed vengeance on "the fascist state."

The group's only demand was that the letter be published in full.

Hearst said Thursday night he expected further word by mail today or Saturday.

Hearst said, "I just hope whatever demands they make are of a kind that are possible to fulfill." He spoke to newsmen clustered at the doorstep of his home in the fashionable suburb of Hillsborough, 15 miles south of San Francisco.

A spokesman for the Hearst family and FBI agents said they considered the letter authentic. The FBI said it would take no action without the family's approval.

U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe suggested in Washington Thursday that the violence that has gripped the San Francisco Bay area since Foster's murder might spread to the East. But he said he had no real evidence that would happen.

Saxbe said there is reason to believe the Symbionese Liberation Army may be involved in a string of 12 apparently motiveless murders in the San Francisco Bay area in recent months.

The group, with the insignia of a seven-headed cobra, is multiracial. Witnesses to the Monday kidnaping said the abductors were two black men and a white woman. Two others, a white man and a white woman, also are being sought.

MEN IN THE MIDDLE in the Mideast standoff are the white-helmeted United Nations peace-keeping troops. Outside Suez City, two troopers stand between an Israeli soldier, foreground, and Egyptian personnel a short distance away.

crime prevention will be conducted by Sikeston police department personnel at Sikeston schools under the direction of detective Hinton. At 7 p.m., a Law Enforcement Agencies Appreciation Banquet, sponsored by the Exchange Club, will be held at Ramada Inn.

A "know your policeman program" to be featured Monday through Friday will find police department teams counseling area merchants on "how to combat and control shoplifting."

Open house at the Sikeston police station will provide interested groups or individuals an opportunity to visit police personnel and facilities, also Monday through Friday.

The theme for this year's crime prevention campaign is "Crime is the loser...when you know the game rules". The rules consist of cooperation, activity and protection in four major areas— your auto, home, yourself and your children.

An ordinance of the sanitary refuse collection was presented to the council by City Attorney Fielding Potashnick for study.

Paving of streets and badly needed repairs were also discussed. The council explained that due to the weather, street crews have not been able to keep up repairs, but assured those present that repairs would be made as soon as possible. They were also informed that if 51 per cent of the residents along any one street wanted their street paved and curb and guttering added and were willing to pay their share of the costs, a petition could be presented to the council and action would be taken.

There were complaints voiced that the crews installing the water meter boxes were digging up drive ways and yards without first informing the people of what they were doing. City Manager Bob Kakac was instructed to talk with Bridger Construction Co., the company installing the meter boxes, and request that they inform the resident of what they are doing.

The council voted to endorse Operation Red Ball, sponsored locally by the Kiwanis Club. Stickers will be purchased and distributed by the club and are to be placed on bedroom windows where invalids and children sleep. These will inform firemen that someone is normally sleeping in these rooms and may need assistance in escaping if there is a fire in the home.

Kakac announced that Danny Noggle had been employed Thursday as a full-time dog catcher and would be paid on the basis of the number of stray dogs he picked up.

Kakac also announced that he had received a letter from See- Mor Cable T. V. that the company was in the process of installing the cable along Highway 105, between Charleston and East Prairie.

An ordinance setting April 2 as the date for the general election, and March 18 the date of the primary election if necessary, was adopted.

Collector's report for the month of January totaled $30,255.73. Expenditures approved for payment were in the amount of $7,148,90. The police judge report showed $340 in assessed fines for the month.

'EMERGENCY!' (FEB. 9)-- Pat Buttram plays hermit

When an elderly hermit (Pat Buttram) fails to pick over the weekend trash at a local supermarket, a search for the old fellow-- who is trapped in a cave- in-- is set off by the market manager in "The Floor Brigade," on NBC Television Network's "Emergency!" Saturday, Feb. 9 (in color, 7- 8 p.m. DST).

Paramedics Gage (Randolph Mantooth) and DeSoto (Kevin Tighe) are interrupted in their pipe- dreaming about going into the professional floor polishing business during off- hours, not only by the cave- in but by emergencies involving a vicious dog, a man unconscious on top of a water tower, and an explosion in a chemical plant.

Julie London, Bobby Troup and Robert Fuller co-star in the series. "The Floor Brigade" was written by Roland Wolpert and directed by Dennis Donnelly.

"The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies"...

A burst of bizarre occurrences on Worldwide Studios' back lot brings the long- standing fable of a mysterious figure living among its decaying splendor into focus as a reality, in "The Phantom of Hollywood," a mystery- drama lampoon on "The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies" Tuesday, Feb. 12 (8:30- 10:00 p.m. DST) on the CBS Television Network.

Prominent in the large cast of the film are Skye Aubrey, Jack Cassidy, Jackie Coogan, Broderick Crawford, Peter Haskell, John Ireland, Peter Lawford, Regis Toomey, Kent Taylor, Bill Williams, John Lupton, Fredd Wayne, Corinne Calvet and Gary Barton. Gene Levitt produced and directed the MGM Television production, with Burt Nodella as executive producer.

Because of changes in the movie- making world, Worldwide Studios no longer needs its sprawling Lot 2 with its false- fronted buildings, ramshackle Western towns and cracked plaster castles. The studio's owner, Roger Cross, decides to convert the property into ready cash by selling to real- estate developers. The news of the impending sale is released by Ray Burns, the studio's director of publicity, and subsequent sinister events soon make even larger headlines.

The first hint that the phantom of the studio may be more than a myth comes in a series of warnings to call off the sale, found by Cross with no logical explanation as to how they arrived on his desk. Worldwide security men and the city police are baffled as strange deaths and disappearances continue to take place, reaching a climax when Cross' daughter Randy is kidnapped. It seems that the only way to stop the phantom and save Randy is to destroy the old sets, and bulldozers are called in to begin the work the phantom is striking so savagely to prevent.

Trucks moving as strike continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More trucks were reported on the road today as scattered incidents of violence continued and mediators attempted to persuade independent drivers to end their nine-day protest shutdown.

Increased truck traffic was noted by officials in Pennsylvania, Missouri and Kansas, but there was no sign that the shutdown to gain reduced fuel rates and other concessions was ending.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, the self-appointed mediator who initiated negotiations between dissidents and federal officials in Washington, journeyed to a truck stop in Bartonsville, Pa., to explain the settlement to protesters.

The manager of the Stop 76 in Bartonsville, Bill Fry, reported that truckers from nearby areas had gathered for the meeting with Shapp. But, Fry said, most remained opposed to the tentative agreement reached early Thursday.

Among other things, the government promised to provide the drivers with all the diesel fuel they need, and to allow a surcharge on freight rates to cover the recent hikes in fuel prices.

The violence that marked the nine days of protest fell off after announcement of the agreement, but authorities in at least eight states today reported shootings or vandalism had occurred again during the night.

Although most of the big rigs involved in the protest remained idle, there was some acceptance of the agreement with the government as Shapp and other negotiators brought their case to the protesters. In Santa Clara, Calif., a truckers' group voted 112 to 50 to accept the deal after a bitter two-hour debate.

"I think we are a long way from ending this mess," said strike leader J. W. "River Rat" Edwards in Kansas City. "As long as the government refuses to talk sense, we won't either." And 500 strikers attending a meeting with Edwards Thursday night vowed to stay shut down.

So did drivers attending Thursday night meetings in Joplin, Mo.; Branford, Conn.; Wildwood, Fla.; Coates, Minn.; Palmyra, Ill.; Moorhead, Minn.; Glasgow, Del.; and Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz. To flex their strength, some of the protesting drivers went out and closed down more truck stops Thursday night.

But the majority of those speaking out said government promises of all the diesel fuel that truckers need, an immediate surcharge on freight rates to compensate for past diesel fuel increases and future rate hikes to pass along increased costs were not enough.

East Prairie City Council discusses waste disposal

EAST PRAIRIE--- Thursday night's City Council meeting proved to be a question and answer session when about 12 residents attended the meeting seeking answers on subjects ranging from sanitary waste disposal to the problem of dogs running loose.

Mayor A. L. Weaver explained to those present that the necessity of having a sanitary refuse collection service was not a decision of the council but one required by state and federal laws which go into effect July 1. At that time the city must have an ordinance establishing the guidelines and be prepared to have a collection service in operation.

Lack of funds and the high cost of equipment, plus additional crewmen, were the reasons given to the question of why the city does not operate the service.

The cost of the service was another prime concern of those present, who voiced objections to the proposed fee of $3 per month per family. Several said they thought the fee was too high, especially for elderly persons living on a low fixed income and it was also pointed out that the amount of waste would vary from family to family depending upon it's size, and felt the cost should

Gun fired at trucker on I-55

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A Paducah, Ky., trucker and a passenger were shot at early today on Route K west of Interstate 55 near the entrance to Holiday Inn, the highway patrol reported today.

Ed Nance of Paducah and James B. Gurley of Cape Girardeau told the patrol that about 1:30 a.m. a dark colored car swerved into the path of the Colonial Bakers Truck driven by Nance, who said he thought he heard a shot fired.

The car then turned around and followed the truck until Nance pulled into a private drive.

The windshield on the passenger side of the truck was struck by what appeared to be a .22- caliber short bullet, but it did not penetrate the windshield.

Area ambulance service may be ready by summer

Ambulance service for residents of parts of Scott and New Madrid counties may be available by midsummer, according to Harold Jones, administrator of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The service — to be based at the hospital — came about through the efforts of the city of Sikeston and the County Courts of New Madrid and Scott counties. It will comply with new state laws enacted to regulate ambulance service and personnel in the state, which were "created to save lives," Jones said.

The need for the service arose when most local funeral homes announced their intentions last year to discontinue ambulance service Jan. 1, 1974, rather than comply with regulations of the new ambulance laws.

Welsh Funeral Home and Dotson Funeral Home of Sikeston both decided to continue their ambulance service until the new system is ready.

The Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council based at Malden, interested in helping fill the void created when funeral directors stopped ambulance service, established a task force last year to evaluate emergency care delivery systems in the six- county area.

Staff members of the health council met Sept. 6, 1973 with representatives from the hospital, Scott and New Madrid County Courts, city of Sikeston officials, Sikeston Jaycees and other interested persons to present their recommendations for improving the ambulance system. The Mississippi County Court also was invited to send representatives, but did not respond.

The group asked the hospital to provide service for the southern part of Scott County and northern part of New Madrid County.

The County Courts have purchased one ambulance each and the Sikeston Jaycees have bought two ambulances, all to be placed at the hospital and staffed by personnel already employed by the hospital. The ambulances have been ordered and are scheduled to arrive sometime in July.

Jones explained that the service is designed for emergency use only and is not a taxi service.

Four ambulance teams of two qualified attendants each will be stationed at the hospital around the clock. When an ambulance is dispatched from the hospital, another team and ambulance will be made ready.

The hospital and each ambulance will be equipped with a radio communications system.

The hospital is a member of the Hospital Emergency Administrative Radio program, (HEAR) a state radio network. In case of a large disaster, the hospital will have communication with other doctors and health facilities across the state.

The service will provide the best life- saving equipment and personnel available, according to Jones. Once the minimum requirements for equipment are met, additional equipment -- resuscitation and monitoring equipment -- will be installed.

Treatment will begin at the scene, since each attendant will receive training in an 81- hour emergency training course to be taught in the hospital's classrooms. The course is to be held under the supervision of the Sikeston Vocational School with vocational director Bill Sikes serving as project director.

The first session of classes will begin Tuesday with 18 persons from the hospital staff attending, along with two persons each from New Madrid County, Mississippi County and the Malden area. A second course will be available in April. Jones said there is a need for 35 participants in the program.

Brown gets Chaffee bid

CHAFFEE — The Chaffee High School signed a contract Thursday with Brown Construction Co. of Dexter for $525,190 for the construction of two additions to Chaffee High School.

The second bid submitted was from Ryan Construction Co. of Sikeston for $528,000.

The architect and two low- bidders have been reviewing plans for the construction of the additions since Jan. 10 when the bids were higher than the school had anticipated.

A bond issue of $495,000 for construction of the school additions was approved by voters last February.

Plans calls for the construction of a single- level four classroom building and a physical education arena building.

The classroom building will have 19,020 square feet, although only four rooms of 8,000 square feet are to be built at first. More rooms will be added as the school system's bonded indebtedness decreases.

The physical education building will have about 20,000 square feet with a seating capacity of 1,500.

Construction on the building will begin as soon as the weather permits.

County landfill open 24 hours

BENTON — The Scott County Court announced Thursday that the county sanitary landfill one mile north of Morley on Highway 61 will be open 24 hours a day seven days a week, effective today.

Presiding Judge Les Lankford said the court reached this decision after receiving reports of people dumping their refuse along the road during the hours the landfill was closed.

"We expect people to carry on in an ordinary fashion when they go to the landfill ... because there will be some type of surveillance," Lankford remarked.

Previously, the landfill site had been open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Man badly hurt when hit by truck

Melvin Wilburn, 58, of 302 S. Stoddard St. was listed in critical condition today at Missouri Delta Community Hospital, where he was taken after being run over by a tractor- trailer truck at 2:12 p.m. Thursday at the Agrico Chemical Co. plant, 1600 W. Malone Ave.

Wilburn received multiple fractures and other injuries, according to a hospital spokesmen.

Police said a truck driven by John Ikerman, 36, of Benton, Box 263, was backing up to unload 73,000 pounds of gravel when the rear wheels ran over Wilburn.

Wilburn had apparently fallen down behind the truck and Ikerman did not see him. Wilburn, a foreman at the plant, was going to show Ikerman where to unload the gravel, police said.

No arrests were made, police said.

Officer to remain on force

BERNIE-- The board of aldermen in a special meeting Thursday night took no formal action against city police officer David Moore, who is being sued for a civil rights violation by David Williamson of Dexter.

The board heard Moore's statements concerning an incident in the Bernie Police Station on May 27, 1973 in which Williamson was involved. The board then voted there was no reason to suspend Moore, since the case will be heard in federal court.

The board said it regrets any controversy that might have occurred, but on the evidence given, ruled to prejudge the officer would be unfair.

Cornwell seeks council seat

Denny Cornwell announces his candidacy for a position on the Sikeston City Council. Two council positions are to be filed in the April 2 city election.

Cornwell moved to Sikeston in February 1971 when he became manager of Midwest Beauty Supplies, 1619 E. Malone Ave.

Cornwell operated a floor- covering business in Tulsa, Okla., for six years and has been in the field of cosmetology since 1968.

While in Oklahoma, Cornwell was a member of the Jaycees and served on the board of directors for two years. In 1964, he was named a statewide director.

Cornwell is a graduate of the Dale Carnegie salesmanship and public speaking courses and was an instructor for the salesmanship course for two years.

He and his wife Sharon, who is employed by Southeast Missouri Computer Corp., live at 731 Matthews Ave.

Cornwell says he wants the support of Sikeston residents and asks an opportunity to serve them as a councilman.

If elected, he promises to give 100 per cent attention to his duties and obligations as a councilman.

Noranda strike continues

MARSTON-- A standoff continues between Noranda Aluminum Inc. and members of Local 7686 United Steele Workers of America following a week- long strike at the aluminum reduction plant which started when the contract expired Jan. 31.

Negotiations broke off on that day between the company and union representatives when they failed to reach an agreement on a new contract.

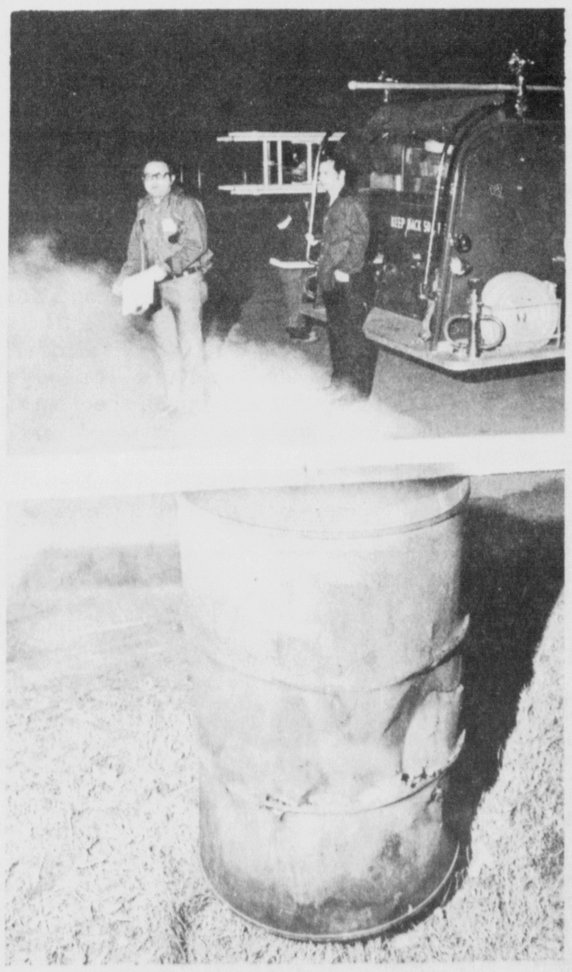
The plant is continuing 24- hour production by supervisory personnel who remain on the site.

A company official stated earlier that if agreements were reached among the aluminum companies and unions in New York, perhaps Noranda and the union could reach a contract agreement. It was announced that such agreements were reached in New York over the weekend.

A union spokesman said today the union is ready at any time to meet with the company officials but no meeting has been held since the strike started and none are scheduled at this time.

He stated the workers are seeking the same wage scale and benefits that are paid to other workers in the metal industries.

According to the spokesman, the Noranda mill produces the finest metal in the United States. "Every pound of it is sold for top prices, but the workers who produce it are not paid wages that other metal industries pay," he said.



What car fire?

Fires being as dangerous and destructive as they are, Sikeston's fire department races at full tilt to every one that is reported. Sometimes the reports turn out to be a little bit in error. Such was the case when firemen responded to a call about a car fire on Lillian Street which turned out to be a trash fire in this barrel. Firemen found the barrel setting a few feet away from a car somebody evidently thought was on fire. Volunteer fireman Earl McConnell, left, and an unidentified man look as if they just couldn't quite believe the whole thing.

FLOOD CONCERN CAUSING
COTTON NOSE DIVES

There's an age- old folk story about a man traveling through Arkansas who stopped at a stranger's house to ask for directions.

While there, the traveler noticed the rundown condition of the man's house and inquired why he didn't fix his roof. The old gentleman, who was sitting on his front porch, promptly replied "When it's raining it's too wet to fix it and when it's not raining it don't leak."

This could be a good lesson to most of us who live along or near the Mississippi River.

Last year's flood, which records show was one of the worst in the past 100 years, if not in history, caused millions of dollars in property and crop damage in Southeast Missouri alone. Add this to the damage to northern Missouri and neighboring states and the damage figure grows into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Although many were warned to expect a flood, even the experts had no idea of the extensive damage that was to come.

However, we have already been given ample notice that there is a very distinct possibility that if certain weather conditions prevail, this region could face worse flooding this year than last year.

Clear weather within the past week has given us a temporary breathing spell, but now is the time to prepare for when the rains return.

The Corps of Engineers is reportedly already making preparations to help prevent some of last year's problems, and we have word that the Missouri National Guard is also helping with sandbagging operations for the more vulnerable positions along the river.

But this alone will not prevent much of the heartache that can occur if this region is again deluged with flooding of 1973 proportions.

Every farmer along the Mississippi River should be taking every precaution possible to shore up his property to prevent the type of damage suffered last year.

Every community within a 50- mile radius of the river should draw up emergency plans to cope with the situation in the event of flooding. This should also include possible storage and housing facilities for friends closer to the river who may be forced to evacuate.

The Corps of Engineers could play a valuable role in encouraging the release of "overflow" water into areas along the Mississippi where it will do the least amount of damage, thereby preventing costly damage to valuable crops along the river. If the release policy is started early enough, it could possibly prevent much of the buildup that could lead to enough pressure to eventually break levees and flood large areas.

We are hoping that enough water could be released at the southern tip of the Mississippi to greatly reduce the threat of serious flooding.

Regardless of how we do it, we need to start now formulating our plans and putting them into operation — then pray that it doesn't rain enough, so the "roof don't leak."

Sometimes the older generation may have second - thoughts on some of today's youth becoming tomorrow's leaders. However, it is reassuring to note that youth organizations such as the Boy Scouts of America are working to develop future leaders of strong moral character and sound convictions, capable of carrying the strength and freedom traditions of the United States.

So we give special recognition to the Boy Scouts of America this February 8, as they celebrate the 64th anniversary of the founding of scouting in America. During the month of February, over 6 million Boy Scouts will be exhibiting for the public the many Scouting skills which lead to the development of good character traits, attitudes and self - reliance.

We salute the Boy Scouts and their adult leaders on this occasion and our communities are better for your work and programs.

'NO' ON PRIVY STAMP

Efforts to obtain proper official recognition for that great old American institution, the outhouse or "privy," are continuing but without a great deal of success. And that's a pity, of course.

The latest to come to my attention is a report from faraway Oregon. A transplanted Arkansawyer named Estley Weatherall, who's now 75 and living in Portland, is trying to persuade the Postal Service to issue a stamp to commemorate the outhouse. All he's getting is the door slammed in his face.

He petitioned the Citizens Advisory Stamp Committee, which has official duties pertaining to commemorative stamps. A curt reply came to say the committee had "more serious ideas to consider." Apparently the committee is made up of city slickers who are ignorant of the truly serious conditions which prevailed on occasion in relation to privies.

A lot of folks simply won't take serious matters seriously. C. Chester Smith, of Springfield, ran smack up against this fact last fall. He went to the public library to inquire about James Whitcomb Riley's poem on "The Passing of the Backhouse," but wrote me that the girl librarian thought he was joking.

Mr. Smith had taken a suggestion from this column, made earlier, that anyone interested in Mr. Riley's lament might find the poem at a library. Apparently this doesn't hold true at all libraries.

As for Mr. Weatherall of Oregon, his inspiration for a postage stamp came from a return to his home home grounds in the piney woods south Arkansas. There, he wrote the postmaster general, he found "the old weather - beaten privy of home."

He described it with admiration:

"There she stood, gracefully aging with the years, sagging but giving the impression of pride to have served well. In her door was the crescent moon, the wooden latch lock controlled from inside to insure uppermost privacy. The cinder path that led to this sanctum was grown over. In its heyday the cinders would give off a crunching sound, warning the occupant to check the latch for security."

Considering the great upsurge of interest in recent years in relics of the American past, surely there is merit in Mr. Weatherall's proposal that the privy be commemorated by a postage stamp. And surely the privy occupied a significant and vital role in the American culture. It was a facility utilized by rich and poor, by aristocrats and the famous as well as millions of ordinary folks of no fame whatever.

Despite Mr. Smith's disappointment over the Riley poem at his library, there is some literature in print on the subject of the privy. I mentioned one booklet, "Pretty Privies of the Ozarks," in an earlier article. This is a collection of photos by Mahlon N. White, published by the Democrat Publishing Co., Clinton, Mo. More recently, I acquired another booklet, "Truly American," which also is a collection of photos of privies. The author is Lynn Blumenstein, and the publisher is Old Time Bottle Publishing Co., Salem, Oregon.

As for earlier books, the most famous of all certainly is "The Specialist," by "Chic" Sale. It had sold more than a million copies before 1930, when Sale's second book, "I'll Tell You Why," came out. Whether these very entertaining and enlightening books are in print now, I don't know.

"The Specialist" was so popular in its day that afterwards outhouses often were called "Chic Sales." For younger readers who never head of the book or its author, the book told the story of a carpenter who was a specialist in desiging and building outhouses. "I'll Tell You Why" is a sequel to "The Specialist" and it's funny, too.

NADER, THE VILLAIN;
NADER, THE HERO

It's news of some kind when a businessman has nice words to say about Ralph Nader. No less than the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has done just that.

The consumer advocate has been described in some quarters as "an enemy of the system." But if businessmen would "look with fresh eyes at Ralph Nader and the kind of consumerism he represents," they would realize that "his commitment is to make the system work," says Edward B. Rust, who is also president of the six companies in the State Farm Insurance group.

"The whole point of Nader," says Rust, "—so obvious that it is often overlooked — is his single-minded dedication to making the free enterprise system work as it's supposed to — to make marketplace realities out of the very virtues that businessmen ascribe to the system."

That, he says, "suggests a considerable degree of faith in the system and contrasts sharply with the revolutionary who would tear it down."

Well, you win some and you lose some.

At about the same time that Rust was praising the Caesar of the consumerism movement, another source was challenging him to put his convictions where his mouth is.

The point of contention was Nader's recent charge that "there's no question that the oil industry has been calculatingly developing a short- term energy crisis in order to get what it wants out of Washington."

The claim is "nonsense — and stale nonsense, at that," counters the American Petroleum Institute.

"If Mr. Nader has facts to back up his charge," the API says, "as a citizen he should present the information to a grand jury. If he has no such proof, he is doing the public a disservice by adding to the confusion surrounding the energy issue."

The energy shortage is "real and will not go away any time soon," says the institute, maintaining that "the basic cause has been years of indecision over national energy policies."

If the effect of Nader's blast against the oil industry is to encourage Americans to go their merry energy - consuming ways, it would seem that it would be less - than - desirable consquence of his dedication to making the free enterprise system work, as the Chamber of Commerce president gives him credit for.

But whatever one's feelings about business or consumerism, it has to be agreed that Ralph Nader makes waves.

AM RADIO FIRE
ALARM SYSTEM IS INSTALLED

A new solid- state coded - radio fire alarm system is replacing a conventionally wired system in New Castle, Pa., manufactured by Gamewell, a division of Gulf and Western Manufacturing Co.

Each new fire box contained an individual radio transmitter with no wire between the box and the Communications Center.

A tone- encoded signal is amplitude modulated (comparable to normal radio stations) assuring greater range and clearer signals from weak and remote areas. Each fire alarm box will be powered by recharable, maintenance- free, lead acid batteries which will operate for a minimum of six months before recharging is needed.

Twenty-two of the 69 radio call boxes will be master units which, in addition to functioning as street alarm boxes, will permit automatic operation from fire alarm systems installed in buildings. The building alarm systems can be zoned within a single building, or a single radio box can serve as many as four separate buildings.

NEW ASIAN DANGER

A naval fight between forces of South Vietnam and Red China off some obscure islands in the South China Sea serves to remind us that the affairs of Asia, like those in the Middle East, remain explosive. The scene of the battle was in the chain of Paracel Islands which lie 200 miles off the coast of South Vietnam. They have long been in dispute between Saigon and Peking. This naval engagement occurred even as communist forces directed by Hanoi were pressing fresh land offenses against the embattled South Vietnamese troops who must now stand off the invaders alone.

There are two points of history emphasized by the gravity that now centers over the battlefields on and off the coast of Indochina. The United States backed away from a finish fight with the Chinese Reds during the Korean conflict. This was a military compromise that was opposed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The States decided not to win the Korean War on the field of battle. The other point in history involves our 10- year fling in fighting the communists of North Vietnam. Our men again fought bravely but politicians directed the war and we again wound up with a compromise and "peace with honor" which turned out to be neither.

While American soldiers have long since been withdrawn from South Vietnam, the fighting and dying go on unabated and the communist forces remain a constant threat in the field. Saigon itself may be in peril.

It is to be hoped at this late date that diplomacy can calm the troubled waters of Asia. Our good offices should be open, as should those of our allies. The situation now looks foreboding but we have overcome worse problems and with strong leadership we shall overcome this one. A strong defense which the United States should put into evidence will strengthen our diplomatic hand. HLH

Blocking Fuel Thieves:

NEW YORK-- Gasoline tanker trucks and even a barge or two are being hijacked by "cowboys" for hire-- but no one really knows just who is commissioning them to ride a 3,000- gallon carrier off the streets or highways.

However, both the federal and local police authorities believe the "cowboss" aren't the Cosa Nostra's. The Mafia is too shrewd, too public-relations conscious, too profit-minded to whip up the citizenry's wrath right now. So, the crime- fighting experts are convinced the organized crime families are betting on the certainty of gas rationing.

Then the underworld can slide its underground doors open on a vast black market and flood the nation with forged ration coupons. They're all ready.

Hijacking gas trucks is just too risky considering the "take." Fire departments don't permit trucks to carry more than 3,000 gallons. Even at a dollar a gallon, and you can't wrench that yet from the angry public, it would mean a heist worth $3,000. Too chancy considering it costs $5,000 an hour to hide the truck.

Who then is hijacking the trucks seized here and up the line to Albany, some New England states and points south and west? Who stole 30,000 gallons from a depot in the Tampa, Fla., area (according to local law enforcement records)? And thousands of gallons from a fuel center in Richmond, Va.-- just to mention a few of the rippling gasoline robberies?

There have been a few arrests here where the New York Police Dept. has a fabulous, and imaginative, Safe, Loft and Truck Squad D, at One Police Plaza commanded by Capt. Paul Herny. The arrests don't link any of the hijackings to the Mafia.

Capt. Henry's Squad works closely with the New York State Motor Truck Assn locally and with "TICOTH" nationally.

TICOTH is the code name for Trucking Industry Committee On Theft and Hijacking organized in Washington, D. C., by the American Trucking Assn. It too finds no hijacking Mafia tie.

TICOTH is directed by the Association's Jim Fernan, an ex- FBI man. But aside from reporting their activities here, I reflect all informed opinion and am not quoting either Capt. Herny or Jim Fernan or the state's trucking organization's anti- hijacking coordinator, Frank Lasar-- though these men appear to be the nation's most knowledgeable authorities in this new gas and diesel fuel hijacking phenomenon.

Aside from traditional anti-hijack counterattacks, there really isn't any technical expertise in this field yet. The Justice Department's heavily financed Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) is surveying the nation, consulting with the FBI and local police departments on what aid is needed. This mostly is in the form of funds, always helpful, and some interchange of information. There'll be an LEAA gasoline hijacking report in about three weeks, I'm told.

There's one certainty-- whoever is hijacking a truck load of gas worth at most some $1,500 and more likely $1,000, is chancing much and obviously not for the money. Hijacking is a serious crime violating federal and local laws-- kidnapping, armed robbery and sometimes felonious assault. Murder, too, if an abducted driver should die.

Opinion among the anti-crime forces has it that the hijacking is being handled by loners for some taxi fleet, or a car service, with or without chauffeurs, or some truck firm- none of which could operate without huge amounts of gas. Nor could they afford to have their vehicles wait in five- block- long lines for an allotted three gallons of gas when they need anywhere from 15 to 150 gallons regularly for rentals, chauffeur-driven limousines and freight hauls.

Thus the confidential belief is that private firms are hijacking other private firms-- namely the oil and gas distributors-- especially during the days the rebel owner-driver truckers duct off fuel deliveries by picketing depots.

Whoever they are, Capt. Herny is determined to nail them. So are the directors of the Motor Assn's Operation Alert, which cues in with sheriffs of a score of counties and is alerting oil distributors not only throughout New York but in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Vermont. This strategy is in addition to TICOTH.

Capt. Herny met with the top security personnel of seven major oil companies and one big common carrier three weeks ago at One Police Plaza here. They set up a system of interchange of information and some off- the- record operations.

Further, Capt. Herny is set for the Mafia if it cuts into the hijack field after all. He has a vast file on gas filling stations owned, or frequented, or used as hangouts by Mafiosi. If trucks suddenly appear at these Mafia stations pouring their guts into empty tanks and a string of cars appear to be filling up unduly and frequently, his squad will move in.

Life in the Office: Taking up a Collection for Baby

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — You never really know what the human herd is like until you take up an office collection.

Suppose, for example, that Millicent, the plump little girl in the stenographic pool, has just had a baby and you have been drafted into trying to pry a buck apiece out of the other hired hands in the office to buy the kid a present.

Here is a typical sampling of the remarks that greet you:

"See me payday."

"Count me out on moral principles. I'm against the birth explosion. If we start rewarding babies for being born, we'll be up to our armpits in them."

"I'll give the baby a buck when the father gives me a cigar — and not until then."

"Nobody gave me money for being born. They just stole the pewter spoon out of my mouth."

"See me payday after next."

"When I first came here 40 years ago, the only thing they took up office collections for was the widow when one of the old-timers died. Today they take up a collection to buy flowers for a guy if he stays home from work two days because his sinuses are clogged."

"Pass me on this one. I've got six children of my own at home to buy presents for every other Christmas if I can make it."

"Here's my buck. Any kid crazy enough to be born in these times needs all the help he can get."

"When are you going to take up a collecton for me? I've been working for this sweatshop 18 years, and I have yet to see my first merit raise."

"Sure, here's a buck for the little tyke — and here's another in case he wants to go to college later."

"A dollar is too much, but I'll gladly contribute 50 cents if you assure me I can deduct it from my income tax as a business charity."

"I've only got one buck left, and I plan to buy a Martini for lunch with it. Who do you think needs that Martini most — me or the baby?"

JACK ANDERSON & LES WHITTEN SAYS:

Hoover and Hughes

WASHINGTON-- Frustrated with Mafia infestation of Las Vegas, the late J. Edgar Hoover schemed to turn the Dunes Hotel over to Howard Hughes in hopes of ridding it of suspected underworld influences.

As sometimes happened, the pugnacious old crime fighter refused to let anything get in his way, including firm Justice Department antitrust guidelines against Hughes' purchase of the gaudy Nevada pleasure palace.

This strange venture by the FBI director into corporate takeovers has been described to us by those close to the case who had access to secret FBI memoranda involved.

We have already told from confidential Senate Watergate studies how Attorney General John Mitchell was also working in 1970 to throw the Dunes to Hughes. It has been said, over heated denials by Mitchell that Hughes was to get the Dunes in partial return for his $100,000 gift to President Nixon's political treasure chest.

The FBI director's motives were entirely different. Hoover was miffed over Nevada hoteimen's suits against FBI bugging and over the skimming of casino profits by the Mafia which Hoover knew about but could not prove in court. The aging G- man wanted the Mafia out at all costs.

Hoover would have preferred to throw the Dunes to the Hilton or Webb interests or some other less controversial businessman, but Hughes was already leading the bidders. The FBI head, therefore, cast his lot with Hughes even though Justice's antitrust division already had turned down Hughes on other deals in the Nevada gambling capital.

Justice's antitrust chief at the time, Richard McLaren, learned of Hoover's and Mitchell's efforts and bitterly opposed them on grounds that subverting antitrust laws was not the way to eradicate a crime syndicate.

Our sources have seen FBI memos showing that McLaren charged Hoover with misrepresenting the antitrust division's views. The FBI, according to the memos, countercharged, saying it was McLaren who was doing the misrepresenting.

As the FBI chief and McLaren warred, with Mitchell playing a supporting role for the Hughes takeover, the situation resolved itself. As we reported earlier, Hughes learned that the Dunes ownership had given him dubious profit and loss data, and the whole deal fell through.

FOOTNOTE: Nevada officials and Dunes management have insisted that the Mafia did not control the Dunes then and has no influence on it now. McLaren, now a federal judge, flatly refused all comment. At FBI headquarters, a spokesman said Hoover had never taken a position on the Dunes sale. The FBI had merely forwarded information to the Justice Department from an informant that Hughes was interested in the hotel and that certain federal agencies would not stand in the way of the deal.

NIXON'S PENSION: Despite President Nixon's firm resolve to stick out his full term, sources close to him believe he would resign if faced with certain impeachment.

Impeachment would deprive him of his $60,000- a-year pension. The pay- raise bill, now awaiting congressional action, will increase pensions. Under the bill, the President's pension would increase around $15,000 over the next three years.

Rather than give up a $75,000- a- year pension check, our sources say, the President would resign if he could make a deal to avoid prosecution. House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills has already offered to introduce legislation granting him immunity from prosecution.

JUVENILE RECORDS: Most states strictly forbid the release of juvenile arrest records. This upsets the military brass who want the right to snoop into the past indiscretions of potential recruits.

The most recent military effort to gain access to juvenile records began with a memo from Capt. John R. Brock, the Navy's legislative chief, to his superiors.

"The reluctance of civil authorities to release juvenile record information," he complained, "is impeding recruiter efforts in screening applicants to obtain high quality recruits."

A Navy spokesman explained to us that recruits often fail to note past run- ins with the police. The information turns up later and the servicemen are cashiered for "fraudulent enlistment."

According to Brock's memo, the military services lost $2 million on fraudulent enlistments in fiscal 1972. He wants access to juvenile records, therefore, "to stem the rising tide of fraudulent enlistments, reduce non- cost-effective expenditure of money and effort, and above all, enlist a higher quality recruit."

This would violate the traditional American concept of protecting juvenile records, warn legal experts. "If you get the information out of the courts and put it into a massive governmental system," said one, "it becomes available to be tapped by anybody."

Cheaper budget proposed by Sen. Proxmire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate-House subcommittee on economy in government today proposed $9-billion-cheaper alternative to President Nixon's budget for fiscal 1975.

Sen. William Proxmire, DWis., who also is vice chairman of the Congressional Economic Committee, said Nixon's 11-percent budget increase is unconscionable.

"The rampaging inflationary condition as well as the need for fiscal discipline cries out for a major cut in the President's proposal," Proxmire said.

"In this year of both inflation and unemployment we should cut spending which promotes inflation and emphasize that which increases jobs and increases productivity," he added.

Proxmire would cut spending for defense, space, highways, public works and foreign aid by a total of $12 billion, and increase by $3 billion the funds for housing, public-service employment, consumer protection, health and education.

Nixon's 1975 budget proposes spending $304.4 billion, up $29.7 billion from the current figure.

Proxmire called for holding defense spending at the current level of $80.6 billion, a $7.1-billion cut from Nixon's request. The decrease could come out of "the massive fat and waste in military procurement, excessive overseas bases and troops, and the dilatory and gold-plated weapons such as the new carrier, the B1 bomber and the F14 fighter plane," Proxmire said.

Jaworski, St. Clair discuss file dispute

A spokesman for Jaworski issued the following statement:

"The special prosecutor and White House special counsel held a lengthy meeting this morning. The matter remains under discussion."

The session was held at Jaworski's office in a downtown office building.

The meeting was arranged earlier in the week to discuss a letter St. Clair had sent to Jaworski in which the presidential counsel repeated President Nixon's belief that the prosecutors had received all the material they needed to complete their investigations.

No details of the letter were disclosed, but it was understood that St. Clair did not close off the possibility of some continued cooperation.

But it was clear that Jaworski's staff would no longer have the access that it had received during the past two months.

In a related development, Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., said he has reason to believe more guilty pleas will result from indictments expected to be voted by the Watergate grand jury later this month.

"I have been led to hope guilty pleas will be forthcoming," Ervin said Thursday after announcing the committee will postpone its final report to avoid interfering with the indictments.

Ervin, the committee's chairman, said members had unanimously agreed to the postponement suggested by Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski. He said they also agreed to ask the Senate to extend the committee's life three months to May 28.

Three guilty pleas have been entered in recent months by these Watergate figures: Frederick J. LaRue, former aide to then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell; Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of President Nixon's re-election committee; and John W. Dean III, former White House counsel.

"We hope the situation will be clarified, perhaps by pleas," Ervin said. "If the committee were to file a report on Feb. 28 the defendants will undoubtedly seize on the filing of that report to delay until the resulting publicity has died down."

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, Jr., R-Conn., said that delaying the report will not mean that essential Watergate facts will be "swept under the rug."

The committee also voted to certify its complete investigative file to the House Judiciary Committee considering the possible impeachment of President Nixon.

In other developments:

—President Nixon made the first move in opening discussions with the House Judiciary Committee in its impeachment inquiry, instructing his special counsel to make himself available to the committee for consultations.

—Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe told reporters he thinks the Senate Watergate committee ought to close up shop because "they're straining a little bit now to stay in business."

—Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Nixon told him about 10 days ago that he was considering public disclosure of the contents of Watergate-related tapes and documents.

Of living birds, the North African ostrich produces the largest eggs. The average egg weighs 3.63 to 3.78 lbs., measures 6 to 8 inches in length, 4 to 6 inches in diameter and requires about 40 minutes for boiling.

Ann Landers

Husband spanks new wife; she's warned about future

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please comment on the psychological aspects of a husband spanking his wife?

I am 20 years old, married to a man who is 30. We've been married only two months and already we are in conflict over this matter. Please understand that I love and respect my husband. He was my first sex partner and I am ten years his junior. He regards me as "his little girl." I find it refreshing and enjoyable, compared with the problems other married couples are having.

Last night we had an argument about my "disobeying" him. He turned me over his knee and gave me a hard spanking with a hairbrush.

I hysterically told him it was the most humiliating experience of my entire life. He suddenly became very sweet and explained calmly that because I had lost my father at a tender age, I needed a strong, domineering father-figure-- and he is it. He also said spanking is a "personal, intimate and highly sexual form of correction," bound to improve our marriage and heighten my respect for him.

Am I headed for trouble?-- S. B.

Dear S.B.: Headed for trouble? You've got trouble NOW. You are already married to the nut.

A man who believes spanking a wife "heightens here respect for him" has a few loose bolts. If you buy this crock of cranberries, "little girl," you deserve what you get. And don't be surprised if that "charming man" breaks your jaw one day when he feels the need for a few extra jollies.

Dear Ann Landers: Your neutral stance on astrology does your readers a grave disservice. What Ann Landers says is considered "The Word" by a tremendous audience. I am writing this letter because I believe members of the scientific establishment should make their thinking known. The charlatans swamp the public with whatever they wish to promote while scientists somehow feel it is beneath their dignity to acknowledge the existence of any hocus pocus.

If you had seen lives destroyed by the belief in astrology, as I have, and if you knew as much about the subject as I do, you would share the belief of the scientific community that astrology is at best a religion, and not by any stretch of the imagination a science.-- H.K.E.V.W., Chairman, Department of Astronomy, University Of Southern Florida At Tampa

Dear Chairman: Since your letter arrived I have done some research and I am no longer "neutral." Thanks for moving me over with the scientific community.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married for eight weeks to an attractive, intelligent, well- mannered man. He is also the biggest liar I have ever met. His lying, I'm afraid, is compulsive and pathological.

Could therapy help him? When I hinted he needed it he flew into a rage. Last night I came right out and said, "You need counseling. He refused to speak for hours. I can't bear his anger and his stony silence. What should I do? I'm determined to make this marriage work. It's my second.-- Honeymoon Finito

Dear Honey: Get some counseling for yourself and find out why you married "the biggest liar" you ever met.

Can he be helped? Judging from his reaction to your suggestion-- that he get counseling-- no. Receptivity is essential, and his is zero.

What's prudish? What's O. K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting-- What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Women buying more term insurance

BOSTON (AP) — More and more women are buying term life insurance, one expert says.

Sabino Marinella, president of Continental Investment Corp., says young married women are in the vanguard of this surge.

Over 4.3 million women in this category took out term policies in 1972. This is a 20 per cent increase over 1962, when there were 3.6 million new policyholders.

"The wave of interest in this type of protection for women is simple to explain," Marinella said. "They report that term is an answer to full coverage — and they are particularly pleased with lower cost of premiums."

Marinella says young married women with small children want insurance when their families may need it most. He says the cost of replacing the services of a young wife is significant for any husband.

He also says there are advantageous aspects for young widows and divorcees.

Rita Morrett, Terrell Parker wed in candlelight ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Jason Parker

ORAN — In a candlelight ceremony at First Baptist Church, Miss Rita Lynn Morrett and Terrell Jason Parker exchanged wedding vows at 2 p.m. Jan. 26. The Rev. Alonzo R. Dale, pastor, performed the double- ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Morrett of Oran and Mrs. Lucille Parker of Illmo and Harold J. Parker of Jackson, Miss.

Prenuptial piano music of popular selections was provided by Richard Dale. Dana Wolfe, soloist, accompanied himself on the guitar and sang, "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The church altar was adorned with twin pots of fern arrangements interspersed with pink and white carnations and flanked on each side by a seven-branched candelabra tied with pink satin bows.

An additional candelabra and kneeling bench completed the altar setting. The aisle was decorated with a white bridal carpet, and pink, white and burgundy satin bows marked the pews.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, appeared in a satin gown trimmed with Venise lace. The demi- bell skirt was trimmed with a deep flounce hem. White satin ribbon was intertwined throughout the lace. The gown also featured a detachable train.

The bride's three- tiered bouffant veil of imported illusion was held secure by a Camelot- style cap overlaid with lace matching the gown. A row of seed pearls adorned the top of her headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of red roses, white pompons and pixie carnations.

Mrs. Shirley Wolfe served as matron of honor and Miss Shauna Hency as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Jewell Phillips of Chaffee.

They wore matching gowns with headpieces in the same color. Gowns were of burgundy velvet trimmed in white Venise lace and featured square neck lines and long sleeves. Each carried a long- stemmed pink rose adorned with ribbons.

The groom was attired in a Lord West ivory brocade tuxedo with white ruffled shirt and black velvet bow tie. A single red rose completed his attire.

Randy Simmons of Cape Girardeau was best man. Groomsmen were Richard Johnson of Cape Girardeau and William Koch of Scott City, a brother- in- law of the groom.

The best man wore a dark formal tuxedo with pink ruffled shirt and black bow tie. A single pink rose adorned his lapel. Groomsmen wore tuxedos similar to the best man's and each had a pink rose boutonniere.

Thomas Clark of St. Louis and Grayden David Jr. of Delta were ushers and candlelighters. They wore single- breasted black tuxedos with pink ruffled shirts, black bow ties and pink rose boutonnieres.

Mrs. Elizabeth Koch of Scott City, sister of the groom, attended the guestbook. She wore a long gown and a corsage of pink carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Morrett chose a pink floor- length gown, and Mrs. Parker, the groom's mother, wore a blue floor-length gown. Both had orchid corsages.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the unity candle was lit by the couple to symbolize the oneness of their marriage union.

A reception followed in the church dining room.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white cloth. Pink net, draped from each corner of the table, was accented with pink satin bows.

A three- tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom and trimmed in shades of pink, burgundy and ivory, graced the center of the table. A silver punch bowl and coffee service were at each end of the table, and nuts and mints were served from crystal and silver compotes.

Miss Janet Glastetter, Mrs. Bill Holmes and Mrs. Mark Dannenmueller of Oran were servers. They wore corsages of pink carnations.

A rehearsal dinner, at which the attendants were given gifts from the bride and groom, was given by the groom's mother in the church dining room on Jan. 25.

On Jan. 13, a bridal shower was given by friends at First Baptist Church.

Parker is a 1972 graduate of Cape Girardeau Central High School and is employed by Todt Sheet Metal in Cape. The new Mrs. Parker is a 1971 graduate of Oran High School and is employed by International Shoe Co. at Sikeston.

They live at Ferrell's Trailer Court in Benton.

SHS freshmen win pair

The Sikeston Bulldogs freshmen won a pair of games here Thursday night as the B team downed the Notre Dame Bulldogs 56-31 and the A team drubbed their opponents from Cape Girardeau 75-49 for their highest point total of the season.

In the first game of the night George Brown had the hot hand as the little guard pumped in 16 points to take high game honors but was followed by Hal Hunter with 12.

The Bulldogs hit 28 field goals to 13 for the ND team. ND hit five free throw to none for Sikeston.

Sikeston's defense held the Bulldogs to only six points in the first period while Brown and Butler were putting Sikeston ahead 14-6. The second quarter was low scoring for both teams as Sikeston scored six and ND hit only four.

After the intermission the SHS Bulldogs began to rebound on the defensive boards and fast break down court and put 20 points on the scoreboard by the end of the period.

With the big lead coach Asa Kinniman used his reserves and ND was able to score a few more points in the last period.

In the A game Sikeston came out running and with David Shell popping shots from the corner the Bullodgs had run up an early lead over the ND team.

Sikeston took a 21-9 first period advantage and coach Kinniman went to his bench early in the second period but the Sikeston crew still scored 20 points to 13 for ND.

Paul Gilbow was the only Bulldog regular to play almost the entire game. Gilbow ended the game with 24 points and 11 rebounds. Shell scored 17 while he was in the game and Leible hit 13. Big Alonzo Harris led the Bulldogs with 11 rebounds.

St. Vincent wins 1st

ZALMA — The fifth seeded College High Preps edged by the fourth seeded Naylor Eagles 55-54 and St. Vincents, seeded seventh, upset the sixth seeded Marquand Tigers 46-42 in the Zalma invitational tournament here Wednesday night.

The Naylor Eagles, holding back the CHS Preps by two points in the first quarter, one point in both the second and third quarter, finally gave way to the mighty Preps in the fourth quarter when CHS outscored them by five points to claim a slim victory.

Ron White led the Eagles with 21 points. Jim Moyers and Luke Cano each contributed ten points to lead the Preps to their victory.

In the second game of the night, another upset was recorded when St. Vincents flashed by the Marquand Tigers 46-42 for its first victory of the season.

After blowing a seven point lead at the end of the half, the Tigers handed the game over to the Pirates and the Pirates managed to hold them back the rest of the game with the Pirates ending out in front 46-42.

Randy Harris scored 17 points to lead the Pirates to their victory, and C. J. Rimler contributed 21 points to lead the Tiger's efforts.

Tomorrow night Leopold plays College High at 6:30 and Zalma battles Greenville at 8 p.m.

Harrison's predictions

Well here I go again still trying to get that perfect night before the curtain closes on the 1974 season. I missed a few last Tuesday but not by much. They were closer than some I have predicted this year.

Jackson at Perryville -- The Pirates looked good against Sikeston but the Bulldogs have made a lot of teams look good this year. I have to go along with Jackson -- 75-67.

Dexter at Cape Central -- This could be an interesting game. Coach Jim Hall always has a good defensive team. I'll pick Cape because of their big men -- 60-56.

Poplar Bluff at Sikeston -- The Bulldogs have the home court advantage which should help but the Mules are a pretty good team. Sikeston does play good sometimes so all I have to do is figure which game will be their good one. I'll pick PB because of their zone defense. Sikeston has trouble hitting from over ten feet out -- 72-68.

Kennett at Charleston -- The Bluejays have Marshall Straughter back in the lineup and he is tough. I choose Charleston for two good reasons. Straughter and the home court -- 72-70.

Advance at Woodland -- The Cardinals just don't play much basketball. The Hornets are crippled up but almost beat Puxico with two starters out of the lineup so I'll go with Advance -- 72-55.

Risco at Piggott, Ark. -- They play good basketball in the south so it's Piggott by plenty -- 72-66.

Elsinore at Neelyville -- The Tigers will not have much trouble with hillbillys -- 76-55.

Chaffee at Kelly -- Kelly starters will not get in much time in this one -- 84-65.

Parma at Oran -- This should be a good game. Parma is looking better the second half of the year and Oran is a good running team. I think the Eagles have too much speed for the Pirates -- 72-68.

Bernie at Twin Rivers -- The Royals will win but must hold down Ruben White -- 74-67.

Matthews at Bloomfield -- The Pirates like to run and shoot and coach Don Metz doesn't have the fire power to keep up -- 75-66.

Meadow Heights at Delta -- The Bobcats have Carson Kelly and Mitch Stroder and that's all they need to whip the Panthers -- 77-56.

Notre Dame at College High -- Pity the poor preps -- 80-45.

Bell City at Illmo- Scott City -- The Rams have an easy time against the Cubs -- 72-60.

New Madrid at Richland -- The Indians have a good defense and adequate offense. The Indians will win 67-60.

Gideon prevails

BERNIE — The Gideon Bulldogs had to overcome a 29-28 deficit to beat the BHS Mules here Tuesday night, 61-55.

Ruben White's outside shooting and Joe Stuever's punch kept the pressure on the Bulldogs but Gary Pyland and Curtis Coleman answered the challenge as the two carried the load for the Bulldogs.

Gideon took the game at the free throw line where the Bulldogs hit 19 shots to only seven for Bernie. The Mules outshot the Bulldogs 24-21 from the field.

Gideon took a 15-14 first period lead but allowed the Mules to forge ahead in the second quarter, outscoring the Bulldogs 15-13 to take a 29-28 halftime lead.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)— Australians Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall and John Newcombe will help defend their country's title next month in the Aetna World Cup tennis tournament, team captain Fred Stolle says.

He said Thursday the fourth team member either would be Tony Roche or John Alexander, who both have played previously in the tournament.

U. S. team captain Dennis Ralston has not named his team members.

The tourney is scheduled for March 7- 10 at the Trinity College Ferris athletic center.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)— A House committee voted Thursday against recommending a bill designed to pave the way for racing and parimutueal betting on the Gulf Coast.

Rep. Jim Simpson of Pass Christian, author of the bill, said it died in the Ways and Means Committee because "a number of members did not feel like we should do anything at this time to legalize any form of gambling."

The measure was proposed by a number of coast tourist groups as a way to stimulate tourism and to compete for tourists from Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans, which both sanction betting at the tracks.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— Southern Mississippi fullback Wilson Plunkett, a free agent, signed with the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League Thursday.

Plunkett, of Aiken, S. C., stands 5- feet- 11 and weights 205 pounds. He carried the ball 217 times for Southern Mississippi last season, gaining 886 yards and scoring six touchdowns.

Plunkett, who played outfield and first base, was also picked by the New York Yankees in the 1974 baseball draft.

Hylton to lead Trinity revival

Rev. Jim Hylton

Evangelist Jim Hylton of West Plains will conduct revival services from Sunday through Feb. 17 at Trinity Baptist Church, Highway 61 North. The services will begin at 7 o'clock each night.

The Rev. Mr. Hylton will be assisted in the services by Gary Reutzel of Advance, who will direct the music and assist with counseling.

The Rev. Mr. Hylton was born and reared in Norwood, a small town near Mountain Grove in southern Missouri.

After deciding to enter the ministry at age 17, he pastored churches for 16 years before entering full-time evangelistic work in 1969.

During his ministry, the Rev. Mr. Hylton has conducted evangelistic crusades in Australia, Taiwan and India, as well as throughout the United States, and has worked extensively in Bible conferences, Christian life conferences and evangelism conferences.

In 1970, he became acquainted with Reutzel, a layman, while leading an evangelistic crusade at First Baptist Church in Advance. Reutzel has since assisted the Rev. Mr. Hylton in crusades in Indiana, Louisana and Texas, as well as Missouri.

Reutzel, a farmer, was converted at age 11 and serves the Advance church as a deacon, bus director, Sunday school teacher and church training leader in the youth division and choir member.

Last week Reutzel also assisted the Rev. Grady Etheridge, pastor of Miner Baptist Church, in conducting a lay witness evangelism school at Trinity Baptist Church.

Why people read Revelation again

By David Poling (NEA)

(Second of Two Related Columns)

"It is profane, as well as grandiose, to manipulate the Bible in order to apologize for America." — Wm. Stringfellow

Even the youngsters in third grade are aware that modern man is in trouble. From the gas station to the supermarket, from the tent trailer to the bankbook, people are anxious over national and world events. Inflation hits everybody. Watergate lingers like typhoid. Detroit is laying off by the thousands, no tens of thousands. Hoarding has started and the lines of the unemployed look longer every day. Welcome to 1974, welcome to headache number 17.

The followers of the gurus who teach Transcendental Meditation argue for their spiritual exercises, offering health and happiness to the whole world. This attitude (which has assisted many to find peace of mind in a world of commotion) collides with the latest tract of William Stringfellow who preaches a return to the study of Revelation, a New Testament book not often popular with main-line denominations.

Writing in "An Ethic For Christians and Other Aliens In A Strange Land" (Word Pub.), attorney-theologian-Episcopal layman Stringfellow suggests that the power of Revelation is the power of the Bible to ruthlessly appraise and judge human institutions. In this view, demonic power is at work, death is operative, and the fate of man and mankind in the balance. Looking at Revelation and looking at revelations of our nation's life, Stringfellow observes:

"It is arguable that (Nixon and Johnson) have been more prisoners and victims of the demonic than sponsors of the reduction of truth to propaganda, or the marketing of official lies or the intimidation of the media, or the denigration of the First Amendment, or the virtual abolition of credibility in the relationship of government and citizens."

It should be noted that Stringfellow began his tract long before the inflation-energy crises that now floats over Western man. The American community has been so saturated with lies about Vietnam, with suspicions about Watergate and anger over the President's tax returns that a major controversy is sure to come if they agree with the author who says:

"If citizens realize, by now, that they have been contemptuously, relentlessly importuned because of the untrustworthy versions of Vietnam, they may again also begin to sense how their humanity is similarly insulted by official falsehood and propaganda concerning Watergate, the cost of living, taxation, crime, product safety, certain notorious indictments and practically anything else ....."

Stringfellow claims that the book of Revelation offers Christians — even the most "ordinary" believers — a major weapon and power: the gift of discernment. As promised by the Word of God, the gifts of discernment enable Christians to penetrate the frauds and hoaxes, to combat the principalities and powers, to grapple with death and the demonic and to face the false political idols that crowd our common life.

When Newsweek magazine developed the long article on Transcendental Meditation, it quoted the guru as offering "health and happiness to mankind". But has this Hindu philosophy worked anywhere? The advertisement on the opposite page asks for support of a child in Calcutta, India. The frail girl is malnourished, her mother a recent victim of smallpox. Her father deceased, a street cleaner who died of typhus. The youngster is sponsored by the Christian Children's Fund. Perhaps all these issues, philosophies, new religions are finally resolved in the arena of life. Suffering is universal, global. Salvation is an ancient Christian word, again coming into its own.

McClanahan resigns state Baptist post

JEFFERSON CITY-- Dr. H. L. McClanahan, interim executive secretary of the Missouri Baptist Convention, has submitted his resignation to the church body's executive committee, effective March 1, to become pastor of Red Star Baptist Church in Cape Girardeau.

The Rev. Dr. McClanahan had served in the executive secretary position of the state Baptist organization since being selected last summer following the death of Dr. Earl Harding at the height of a dispute over the Rev. Dr. Harding's handling of convention finances. He had held the position for 19 years.

Prior to becoming interim executive secretary, the Rev. Dr. McClanahan had served as the Rev. Dr. Harding's assistant approximately two years.

Before coming to Jefferson City, he had served as superintendent of missions for Black River Baptist Association with offices in Kennett for 20 years. Before that he pastored several churches in the Bootheel area.

In his letter of resignation to the executive committee, the Rev. Dr. McClanahan stated:

"I am terminating my position as interim executive secretary of the Missouri Baptist Convention effective March 1, 1974, to accept the pastorate of the Red Star Baptist Church at Cape Girardeau, Mo. Much prayer has convinced me that this is God's will for my life at this time.

"Since much of the administrative work of our executive board is being administered by the business office and the various committees of the executive board, I do not believe my severance will pose a major problem to the work of the convention. Also, I believe our search committee will soon be led to recommend a permanent executive secretary who will have the freedom to administer the affairs of the convention in a more effective way.

"Please know, even though I have lavored under a great burden during my tenure of service as an employe of the convention, I count it an honor and privilege for the opportunity to have served the Baptists of Missouri. I shall continue to have a great interest in the affairs of our convention and will strive, at every opportunity, to work with our leaders to advance our Saviour's causes to the ends of the earth."

Sessions will begin at 7 p.m. on weekdays and at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Scripture: John 18:12-19:15

VICTORIOUS IN DEFEAT

"For this I was born, and for this I have come into the world, to bear witness to the truth," so Jesus proclaimed as His days on earth neared the end.

Yet Pilate raised the everlasting question when he asked Him, "What is truth?" John does not provide an answer. What could he have said?

Five centuries before this event, Confucius said that "Those who know the truth are not equal to those who love it." And Plato said God has not given us the attribute to understand truth.

"Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch as the sunbeam," wrote John Milton in 1633.

Today it is difficult for us to visualize the situation Jesus faced. He suffered from attacks all about Him. Yet He steadfastly refused to become a "popular" Messiah.

Christ did not come to be a living king in the Roman concept. In the face of provocations, Jesus retained His self-composure. Even when His accusers told lies about Him, Jesus did not rebuke them.

If Jesus had weakened and accepted the opportunity to become popular, we would not be studying Him or believing in Him today.

Men, too, continually face temptations to accept unworthy goals and to magnify material success.

Actually, the cost of ultimate victory for God's way may mean seeming defeat for an individual or group. Too many seize the present opportunities, rejecting the future goals.

This becomes apparent in today's lesson. The persons who arrested and tried Jesus no doubt felt successful in their achievements. Those who taunted Him as He carried the cross no doubt felt good at the time.

Yet as a suffering servant, Jesus never lost His temper, never turned away from His accusers. It would not be worth studying His life had He summoned a legion of angels to wipe out His enemies.

Now, nearly two thousand years later, we know that Jesus suffered humiliation for our sake. And through His suffering, we do not have to face the judgment we deserve for our sins.

This lesson seeks to make us focus on what happens when one bears witness to the truth. Nevertheless, Jesus never promised an easy life for His followers.

With this lesson the public ministry of Jesus has stopped. His arrest, trial, crucifixion death and resurrection are recorded by John.

Throughout these final days, Jesus faces disappointments. The disciples, after all, were human beings and Jesus knew their weaknesses.

He knew what Judas and Peter were going to do.

And in a way Pilate, too had his weaknesses. He knew Jesus was innocent, yet he preferred to please the crowd. He was so upset that he even violated a Roman law when he ordered the scourging of Jesus.

When the Jews failed to convince Pilate that Jesus was a threat, they planned a new charge. Already the Sanhedrin had decided Jesus was guilty. So, the Jews told Pilate that Jesus claimed to be divine.

Pilate was afraid of the "Son of God" label applied to Jesus. After all, the people then had many gods, and Jesus could have been one of them.

When Jesus refused to directly answer this question, Pilate threatened Him again. But to no avail. On the other hand, Jesus reminded Pilate that his power came from God.

There are many Pilates around today. There are those who find it easier to compromise their beliefs and merge with the mobs. Yet this question still remains:

Who won and who lost?

What did Pilate win or lose?

What did Jesus win or lose?

THE BIBLE

121. Boaz's Promise to Ruth

Naomi sought to reward Ruth's courage and devotion by finding her a husband. Thus, she told her daughter-in-law to bathe, put on fresh raiment and perfume, and then go to the threshing floor where Boaz was winnowing barley. Ruth was also instructed not to let Boaz see her until he had finished his evening meal. Naomi said, "And it shall be, when he lieth down, that thou shalt mark the place where he shall lie, and thou shalt go in, and uncover his feet, and lay thee down; and he will tell thee what thou shalt do." (Ruth 3:4)

All of these things Ruth did, and at midnight it came to pass that Boaz awakened and said, "...Who art thou? And she answered, I am Ruth thine handmaid: spread therefore thy skirt over thine handmaid; for thou art a near kinsman." (Ruth 3:9)

Boaz was pleased by Ruth's patience and courage, and he told her to fear not because everyone knew that she was a virtuous woman. However, he noted that Ruth had one kinsman nearer than he. Nevertheless, he vowed that if the nearer kinsman refused to marry her, then he would himself take her as his wife. So Ruth lay at his feet until morning, but she left early, for Boaz had ordered that no person should know that a woman had been on the threshing floor. Boaz sent with her a gift of six measures of barley. Then she went to wait with Naomi for the outcome.

SCOUTING'S 64th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

NATIONAL BOY SCOUT WEEK
FEB. 8 — FEB. 16

"Do A Good Turn Daily..."

THE SLOGAN THAT WORKS

It works because practice makes perfect, and daily means every day. Boy Scouts get into the habit of looking for ways to help others, until the habit of helpfulness becomes a way of life. The boy grows into a man who cares . . . and shows it!

The best part about a good turn is that it's good for the boy. He feels better about himself because he can help other people. He learns he can really make a difference in shaping a better world. He doesn't stop at one a day. He's always finding new ways to do good . . . and doing them for his fellow men.

Book Review

THE RULERS

There is a power structure that runs a lot of things in America today. It has a direct influence on just about every citizen in our land. There is a book that spells it out. Its title is THE NAKED CAPITALIST.

Some of the richest and most powerful people in the world are avid supporters of communism and socialism. Most Americans strongly doubt that statement because, to them, it makes no sense at all: for it appears quite obvious that any dictatorship is a threat to the usual sources of wealth and economic and industrial power we see all around us.

This thing is one mighty Pandora's box of confusion. But we owe a kind of left-handed debt to one scholar who ripped off the careful seals of secrecy and boasted of the existence of the power elite in a 1,300- page book, which is called Tragedy and Hope — A History of the World in Our Time. Its author is Dr. Carroll Quigley. Its publisher is the Macmillan Company, New York, and it sells for $12.50 a copy.

Dr. Quigley is now professor of history at the Foreign Service School of Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. He formerly taught at Harvard and Princeton and has done special research throughout Europe.

It has been estimated that the oceans contain as much as 50 quadrillion tons (50 million billion tons) of dissolved solids.

Anyone interested in basic clothing construction may telephone or write Miss Rebecca Nistendirk at the New Madrid County Extension Center office.

The deadline for entry in the New Madrid County Sew With Cotton Contest is March 1. The contest will be held April 20 at Portageville High School.

The company bid $29,950.

The Overhead Door Co. of Jefferson City, was the apparent low bidder, at $2,594, on installing a door seal on a truck dock at the state arsenal warehouse in Jefferson City.

A grant for the establishment of the course was awarded as a result of efforts by the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council, which recommended establishment of the course.

The boundaries of the system will be from the towns of Benton and Oran in the north to Highway 62 near Lilbourn on the south. The Stoddard County line is the western boundary.

The ambulance fee will be $25 plus 25 cents per mile. A different fee will be charged for non- local trips.

A deficit of $20,000 has been projected for the first year of operation of the ambulance service. The County Courts will pay the deficit on a pro- rata basis according to the number of pickups made and the number of miles traveled. Jones said each county will pay approximately the same party payers would be $60,000 per ambulance.

In contrast, the total projected cost for the operation of the four ambulances for one year is $59,875, Jones said.

amount.

According to information available on a statewide basis, approximately 2,292 trips will be made per year, serving 35,388 persons. It is anticipated that 100 trips will be made to hospitals in Memphis, St. Louis and Columbia, based on the number of trips made in 1973.

The hospital is at an advantage since it already has inroads to Medicare and Medicaid programs. Methods of handling such patients have already been established, since 52 per cent of the hospital's patients are on one of the programs.

To show the difference in costs between a privately owned service and the newly established one, Jones said that a report made at a recent meeting of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council showed that costs for one ambulance on a 24- hour basis without the benefit of personnel already employed and without the ability to collect from third

ABOARD USS NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts came safely home from man's longest space voyage today, splashing down with pinpoint precision in the Pacific Ocean after 84 days in orbit.

The Apollo taxi ship carrying Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue, and Edward G. Gibson parachuted into the sea 3.4 miles from this recovery ship to climax a record flight which the space agency said proved "America can do anything in manned space flight that it so desires."

During nearly three months in space, the astronauts had circled the globe 1,214 times, traveled 34½ million miles and gathered a wealth of scientific and medical data on man, his earth and his solar system.

The astronauts hit gentle waters 176 miles southwest of San Diego, Calif., at 11:17 a.m. EDT after a journey of 84 days, 1 hour and 16 minutes, breaking the previous Skylab 2 record of 59½ days.

With visibility of 10 miles, hundreds of white-clad sailors on the deck of the New Orleans had a ringside view of the landing.

Helicopters were overhead almost immediately to drop frogmen into the ocean to secure the bobbing spacecraft with a floatation collar.

The recovery ship immediately steamed toward the Apollo, ready to hoist it aboard as quickly as possible so space agency doctors could begin extensive medical examinations to determine how well the astronauts withstood their long exposure to space weightlessness.

"What a beautiful sight," Commander Carr reported as the spacecraft descended toward touchdown.

Terrorist group holds heiress

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — An underground terrorist group says it is holding kidnaped Patricia Hearst as a prisoner and will execute the newspaper heiress if efforts are made to rescue her.

An anxious Hearst family awaited further word from the mysterious Symbionese Liberation Army, which claimed responsibility for the abduction in a communique Thursday. The group offered a gasoline credit card belonging to the girl's father as proof that it held the 19-year-old coed as a "prisoner of war."

The girl's father is Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner. The group's communique called him "a corporate enemy of the people."

Hearst said, "If this is a political problem it may become very, very difficult."

In the letter Thursday to Berkeley radio station KPFA, the radical group claimed the girl was alive and unharmed. But it added:

"Should any attempt be made by authorities to rescue the prisoner, or to arrest or harm any S.L.A. elements, the prisoner is to be executed."

Hearst said he believed his daughter was alive.

Miss Hearst, a University of California student, was kidnaped Monday night from her Berkeley townhouse in a flurry of gunfire.

The same group has said it was responsible for the cyanide-bullet assassination last November of the black superintendent of the Oakland schools. Two alleged Symbionese Liberation Army members are being held in the murder of Marcus Foster Nov. 6. At that time, the group vowed vengeance on "the fascist state."

The group's only demand was that the letter be published in full.

Hearst said Thursday night he expected further word by mail today or Saturday.

Hearst said, "I just hope whatever demands they make are of a kind that are possible to fulfill." He spoke to newsmen clustered at the doorstep of his home in the fashionable suburb of Hillsborough, 15 miles south of San Francisco.

A spokesman for the Hearst family and FBI agents said they considered the letter authentic. The FBI said it would take no action without the family's approval.

U.S. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe suggested in Washington Thursday that the violence that has gripped the San Francisco Bay area since Foster's murder might spread to the East. But he said he had no real evidence that would happen.

Saxbe said there is reason to believe the Symbionese Liberation Army may be involved in a string of 12 apparently motiveless murders in the San Francisco Bay area in recent months.

The group, with the insignia of a seven-headed cobra, is multiracial. Witnesses to the Monday kidnaping said the abductors were two black men and a white woman. Two others, a white man and a white woman, also are being sought.

crime prevention will be conducted by Sikeston police department personnel at Sikeston schools under the direction of detective Hinton. At 7 p.m., a Law Enforcement Agencies Appreciation Banquet, sponsored by the Exchange Club, will be held at Ramada Inn.

A "know your policeman program" to be featured Monday through Friday will find police department teams counseling area merchants on "how to combat and control shoplifting."

Open house at the Sikeston police station will provide interested groups or individuals an opportunity to visit police personnel and facilities, also Monday through Friday.

The theme for this year's crime prevention campaign is "Crime is the loser...when you know the game rules". The rules consist of cooperation, activity and protection in four major areas— your auto, home, yourself and your children.

An ordinance of the sanitary refuse collection was presented to the council by City Attorney Fielding Potashnick for study.

Paving of streets and badly needed repairs were also discussed. The council explained that due to the weather, street crews have not been able to keep up repairs, but assured those present that repairs would be made as soon as possible. They were also informed that if 51 per cent of the residents along any one street wanted their street paved and curb and guttering added and were willing to pay their share of the costs, a petition could be presented to the council and action would be taken.

There were complaints voiced that the crews installing the water meter boxes were digging up drive ways and yards without first informing the people of what they were doing. City Manager Bob Kakac was instructed to talk with Bridger Construction Co., the company installing the meter boxes, and request that they inform the resident of what they are doing.

The council voted to endorse Operation Red Ball, sponsored locally by the Kiwanis Club. Stickers will be purchased and distributed by the club and are to be placed on bedroom windows where invalids and children sleep. These will inform firemen that someone is normally sleeping in these rooms and may need assistance in escaping if there is a fire in the home.

Kakac announced that Danny Noggle had been employed Thursday as a full-time dog catcher and would be paid on the basis of the number of stray dogs he picked up.

Kakac also announced that he had received a letter from See- Mor Cable T. V. that the company was in the process of installing the cable along Highway 105, between Charleston and East Prairie.

An ordinance setting April 2 as the date for the general election, and March 18 the date of the primary election if necessary, was adopted.

Collector's report for the month of January totaled $30,255.73. Expenditures approved for payment were in the amount of $7,148,90. The police judge report showed $340 in assessed fines for the month.

'EMERGENCY!' (FEB. 9)-- Pat Buttram plays hermit

When an elderly hermit (Pat Buttram) fails to pick over the weekend trash at a local supermarket, a search for the old fellow-- who is trapped in a cave- in-- is set off by the market manager in "The Floor Brigade," on NBC Television Network's "Emergency!" Saturday, Feb. 9 (in color, 7- 8 p.m. DST).

Paramedics Gage (Randolph Mantooth) and DeSoto (Kevin Tighe) are interrupted in their pipe- dreaming about going into the professional floor polishing business during off- hours, not only by the cave- in but by emergencies involving a vicious dog, a man unconscious on top of a water tower, and an explosion in a chemical plant.

Julie London, Bobby Troup and Robert Fuller co-star in the series. "The Floor Brigade" was written by Roland Wolpert and directed by Dennis Donnelly.

"The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies"...

A burst of bizarre occurrences on Worldwide Studios' back lot brings the long- standing fable of a mysterious figure living among its decaying splendor into focus as a reality, in "The Phantom of Hollywood," a mystery- drama lampoon on "The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies" Tuesday, Feb. 12 (8:30- 10:00 p.m. DST) on the CBS Television Network.

Prominent in the large cast of the film are Skye Aubrey, Jack Cassidy, Jackie Coogan, Broderick Crawford, Peter Haskell, John Ireland, Peter Lawford, Regis Toomey, Kent Taylor, Bill Williams, John Lupton, Fredd Wayne, Corinne Calvet and Gary Barton. Gene Levitt produced and directed the MGM Television production, with Burt Nodella as executive producer.

Because of changes in the movie- making world, Worldwide Studios no longer needs its sprawling Lot 2 with its false- fronted buildings, ramshackle Western towns and cracked plaster castles. The studio's owner, Roger Cross, decides to convert the property into ready cash by selling to real- estate developers. The news of the impending sale is released by Ray Burns, the studio's director of publicity, and subsequent sinister events soon make even larger headlines.

The first hint that the phantom of the studio may be more than a myth comes in a series of warnings to call off the sale, found by Cross with no logical explanation as to how they arrived on his desk. Worldwide security men and the city police are baffled as strange deaths and disappearances continue to take place, reaching a climax when Cross' daughter Randy is kidnapped. It seems that the only way to stop the phantom and save Randy is to destroy the old sets, and bulldozers are called in to begin the work the phantom is striking so savagely to prevent.
